Wilmington Economic Development Commission

One proposal: a hotel

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Economic Development Commission got up and running last Thursday in a morning meeting at Town Hall that Selectman Chairman and commission member Diane Allan termed "a very productive" introductory session.

The commission is set to meet again on Sept. 28, at which time it will focus on two projects conceived Thursday.

For the September meeting, principal town assessor Skip Moynihan will prepare an inventory list of vacant buildings in town and also town-owned land and how that land is currently zoned.

Meanwhile, Ken Mastrullo, of the AGFA Corporation, will share his company's Wilmington profile and pertinent data with the commission. AGFA uses that information to prep new employees on the community. The commission will use it as a partial guide in drawing up what Allan referred to as a "profile sheet" - a document that will be used to essentially sell prospective industrial, commercial and retail businesses on Wilmington.

"Where should we focus our energies? what best serves the community? what best translates into jobs for Wilmington? what is the town looking for as far as retail businesses?" were all questions Allan posed theoretically - for the time being - as ways of narrowing what types of businesses should be courted to set up shop in town.

"We don't want to leave out the small businesses, because a lot of those are what create jobs for people in Wilmington," Allan said.

For further inspiration, Allan - who pushed the commission into existence from her seat on the board of selectmen and acted as chairperson at its first meeting - passed out copies of articles pulled from the Mass. Municipal Association's Municipal Advocate newsletter that relate how to build a successful community marketing campaign.

The town profile, Allan said, will consist largely of statistics that would give potential town business tenants an idea as to what it's like to be located in Wilmington: town population, proximity to metropolitan areas, highway access, and then school information, details of town functions and lists of existing town businesses.

The commission also began drawing on its diverse membership, gaining helpful input from not only Mastrullo and Moynihan, but also local businessmen John Lucci and Ray Forest. Forest used his expertise in real estate to shed light on the types of things residents look for in terms of retail and service businesses in a community.

The rest of the commission is made up of selectmen Michael McCoy, Robert Cain, Jim Rooney and Dan Wandell; David Gagnon, Al Fiorenza, Patricia Duggan, Planning Board Chairman Dick Longo, Planning/Conservation Director Lynn Duncan and Town Manager Michael Caira. All but McCoy, Rooney, Fiorenza and Longo were present last Thursday.

A couple of specific suggestions for the target list were aimed at the industrial area of North Wilmington.

Allan said the addition of a hotel with convention services capabilities located off Interstate 93 was suggested at the meeting as a way of offering Wilmington businesses an alternative to holding corporate seminars at facilities in Andover.

Restaurants for that area were also mentioned, though the current industrial zoning does not allow for such establishments.

Still, Allan seemed pleased with the progress the commission made in just one meeting.

"We have some specific goals in which there will be a series of steps to reach these goals," she said.

Eric Butler (left) and Hank Bagrowski pose with their "keepers". They hauled bag after bag after bag of trash out of Silver Lake on Monday and Tuesday this week in an unsolicited, personal clean-up effort.

They worked all day for two days with just their bare hands and a small boat to act as their personal trash barge. Butler said, "It's gotta be done. This lake will be Wilmington's dinosaur. It'll be gone." referring to the beauty and recreational use of the lake.

Bamberg improving

by James Pote

Joe Bamberg, the Wilmington teenager who was listed in serious condition at the Christ Hospital Medical Center in Oaklawn, Illinois last week after an accident on his grandfather's farm, has been taken out of the hospital's Intensive Care Unit.

Bamberg, who is 16 and will enter his junior year at Wilmington High School this fall, was visiting his grandfather with his family. On July 18, while helping his grandfather cut down trees at the farm, a large tree branch fell on him, crushing an ankle and fracturing the third, fourth and fifth vertebrae of his back.

Last week, Joe had three separate operations to repair the vertebrae in his back. On Monday, he had his fourth operation, this one to put pins and screws into the crushed ankle.

According to his girlfriend, Michelle Montalto, a Wilmington resident, Bamberg - who last fall was the starting goalkeeper on the WHS varsity soccer team - is in great spirits. He will be flying home soon to start physical therapy/rehabilitation, she said.

"He is doing a lot better. He told me he can wiggle his toes and he has some feeling in his legs," Montalto said.

"He is very optimistic. He is very appreciative of all of the cards he has received (over 100) and the money that has helped him to cover the medical costs ($500). He sounds great," she continued.

Donations (to help the Bamberg family defray medical costs) can still be sent directly to Massbank For Savings, account number 50-035773-2. Make checks payable to Massbank For Savings. Cards, letters or gifts can be sent to Bamberg at Christ Hospital Medical Center, SINI - Bed 14, 4440 West 95th St., Oaklawn, IL 60453.

Next on the list. This pile of brush and trash is soon to disappear as Eric Butler and Hank Bagrowski work their way around the lake. How far will they get? Will they have to start all over when they finish? Only the local litterbugs know for sure!

Mosquito spraying continues through August

The Central Massachusetts Mosquito Control Program will continue to fight its seemingly insurmountable battle with the flying bloodsuckers throughout the month of August in Wilmington, spraying Aug. 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31.

"The [CMMCP] has been treating areas throughout Wilmington where mosquito larvae are found," CMMCP Superintendent David Scott said. "This larviciding of breeding sites will continue throughout the summer months, as will our water management programs."

The ultra low volume spray operations for adult mosquitoes will be continuing in residential and recreational areas. Spraying will be done by truck mounted or hand held equipment and will be conducted in areas where the CMMCP finds high mosquito populations.

Additional spraying dates may be added if mosquito populations warrant them or if inclement weather forces cancellation of a scheduled date.

Anyone who wishes to have their property excluded from spraying should notify Town Clerk Kay Scanlon, at 658-2030, and the CMMCP, at 508-393-3055.

"Our goal is to reduce the need for adult mosquito spraying," Scott said. "We continue to place increased emphasis on larviciding, water management and public education."

Clambake this Saturday

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Sons of Italy are no strangers to clambakes, and Saturday the organization will open its doors for the fifth year in a row for the great food and lively dancing of its Ultimate Clambake.

Around 200 people are anticipated to partake in the festivities at the Sons of Italy's Ballardvale Street facility, according to past Sons of Italy President Kevin Caira, who is billing the clambake as a "casual, fun evening.

"It's a good time," he added.

Four o'clock marks the start of the surf-and-turf-and-everything-in-be-tween food bonanza. All the food will be prepared on-site by the Sons themselves - and they're set to cook up an impressive bill of fare.

The first course for the outdoor clambake will be New England Clam Chowder and steamers.

Then its on to the main course.

Three entree choices will be offered, including two surf-and-turf combos: lobster with a half chicken, or the traditional lobster and steak. For landlubbers, the Sons will prepare a turf-and-turf combo consisting of a half chicken with steak.

And as complements, the Sons will serve up loads of butter, salads, corn on the cob, baked potatoes, and, for dessert - what else? - watermelon.

When everybody's good and stuffed to the gills, it'll be time to move it inside, and then move it to the DJ'd sounds. Dancing will begin at around 6:30 or 7:00 and go until midnight, "or as long as people can last," Caira said.

Later in the evening, the Sons will cool things off with a make-your-own-sundae ice cream buffet bar. The group will also be raffling off several summer fun items.

All proceeds from the $25 per person clambake tickets will go directly to Wilmington Sons of Italy charities.

The Sons of Italy donate money to a host of local organizations, including Little League, Pop Warner and Camp 40 Acres. In addition, funds are given on a state-wide level to benefit charities of all kinds, including those helping Alzheimer's patients.

The Sons of Italy are still selling tickets, but ask that all purchases be made before noon on Friday, Aug. 4. Tickets can be reserved by calling the Wilmington Sons of Italy at 657-4141.

Wilmington library notes

Sale of withdrawn material

From time to time the library has to withdraw books and other items from its various collections because they are no longer needed, because no one wants to read them anymore, because the information is out of date, because they are too worn to circulate again, because better things have been published, because they are available in more useful formats or because they take up too much room for the use that is made of them.

These withdrawn materials - books, magazines,records, etc. will now be available for the public to purchase at very reasonable rates in an on going sale at the library. A shelf in the upper hallway outside the Bicentennial Room has been dedicated to holding these materials. As items are sold, others will be placed on the shelf. At present a selection of children's books and materials are available. Some items that were given to the library and not put into the collection are also included. Payment can be made at either circulation desk. Prices are posted as follows:

Hardcovers, .25; paperbacks, .05; magazines, .10, records, .25 per disc; encyclopedias, full set, $25; partial set $15; videos .15.

Summer reading program party sponsors

Thanks to Demoulas Market Basket and to D'Angelo's Sandwich Shops for their donations to the Summer Reading Program party scheduled for August 23 at 2 p.m. Besides the refreshments being contributed by these local merchants, a movie, summer reading certificates signed by the Governor, and final drawings for the summer will be included in the program.

Fall story hours

Registration for Fall Story Hours for three to five year-olds will take place from August 28 through September 8. More information will be available later about this program and the popular "time for Twos."

Bookends

Thursday, August 10 at 7 p.m., Bookends will meet in the library's conference room. Call 658-2967 for information.

Wilmington extended day care registration begins August 7

The Wilmington Public Schools Extended Day Program is in its fifth year of providing day care for children enrolled in its elementary schools and the Early Childhood Center. The program is housed at the Wildwood Elementary School and is designed to meet the needs and schedule of working parents of children in grades kindergarten through five. This program runs in conjunction with the regular school calendar of 180 days. The before school program runs from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m. and the after school program provides care from 3 to 6 p.m. five days a week.

The qualified staffing consists of certified teachers, program aides and high school students with a ratio 1:10 to assure proper supervision.

Registration for this program begins August 7 and will take place at the Wildwood School. At that time one will need to complete the necessary paperwork to guarantee enrollment. The registration fee is $10 and the first month's tuition will be due at this time. For further information, contact Bunny Kelley at the Wildwood School, 694-6010.

Tewksbury extended day care registration is now open

The Extended Day Program in the Tewksbury Public School is accepting registrations for the coming school year. Depending on enrollment, the location of the sites will include all four elementary schools and the John W. Wynn Middle School.

The activities will include computer, art, music, physical education, enrichment, recreation, and homework assistance.

The program is open to children in kindergarten through grade eight who are residents of Tewksbury. The hours at the Dewing and North Street Schools are 3-6 p.m. with the hours at the Trahan, Heath Brook and Middle Schools at 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

There are two tuition fees to choose from at the elementary level. Three days per week at the choice of the parent/guardian has a tuition of $27.00 per week for the first child in the family. Five days per week has a tuition of $35.00 . The tuition for the middle school program is $27.00 for the first child in the family for the three day per week schedule. The fee for additional children from the same family has a discount of $5.00 off the regular fee per child per week.

For additional information, contact Anthony J. Romano, Director, at the Tewksbury Community Education Office at 508-640-9658.

SPECIAL HELP IN DISASTER AREAS

What does it mean when the President declares a state or a region a national disaster area? Besides special loans for relief and aid from organizations such as the Red Cross, there are certain tax-related advantages that help residents make up for their losses.

Homeowners have four years to replace their principal residences tax free, the count starting after the end of the year when insurance proceeds are delivered. (For ordinary casualty losses, like fires, there's just a two year replacement period.)

There won't be tax on gains from insurance if the owner decides not to replace specially insured items such as stamp collections, art and jewelry. However, if these items are not replaced, then the new residence and its furnishings should cost at least as much as the insurance proceeds that the owner received for both the home and those specially insured items. Insurance received for other personal property is tax free, according to IRS rules.

Editorial

Two men's trash

by Jeff Nazzaro

While standing near Boarding House Park in the midst of the wonderful pageantry, sights, sounds, tastes and smells, the delightful ethnic cornucopia of people, food, music, dance and craft of the Lowell Folk Festival, a young boy happened by and, picking up a stray piece of trash, he deposited it in a nearby receptacle. The Folk Festival was amazing. What really amazed me, though, was the cleanliness of the City of Lowell. I know the words "clean" and "Lowell" usually only appear in sentences such as "Lowell may once have been clean," but for the city's four days in the sun (or rain), it was downright kempt.

Monday, two Wilmington men spent the entire day in Silver Lake. Not to change the topic in the middle of a so-called editorial or anything, but it was HOT again, HOT once more, again HOT on Tuesday. It was really hot Tuesday and two Wilmington men spent their second day in Silver Lake ... picking out garbage. The two men, Eric Butler and Hank Bagrowski didn't hit the well worn beaches or banks of the lake, but delved into the drop off to deliver the tarn from trash. And what a haul. From beer bottles to sneakers to you-don't-even-want-to-knows, the guys filled about 20 trash bags full of prime lake debris. It was, to be sure, an inspired act of community kindness.

So where is all this leading, besides a cleaner community for everyone to live in? Inspiration.

The Wilmington Conservation Commission, Friends of Lubbers Brook, Veranda Avenue Neighbors, the Ipswich River Watershed Assoc., the Wilmington Department of Public Works and the Local Builders Association will put on a townwide watershed cleanup Saturday, Sept. 16 from 9-3, focusing on Lubbers Brook and the area around Town Hall. This event has in the past drawn large numbers and, due to the turnouts and enthusiastic participation, purged the town's waterways of a ton of trash and natural debris. The cleanup is a day of civic pride and environmental caring capped by a free cookout and celebration for volunteers. The cleanup not only beautifies the town and helps protect drinking water for a number of communities, but also frees the waters to flow, and cuts down on breeding sites for mosquitoes. For registration info, contact John Keeley, of the conservation commission, at 658-8238, or cleanup volunteer coordinator Martha Stevenson at 658-5488.

In Tewksbury, the Shawsheen Watershed Association has had an active program for the last five years of sponsoring day-long cleanups in each of the Shawsheen Watershed communities (headwater areas of Lincoln and Bedford; mid-basin areas of Billerica and Tewksbury; and downstream areas of Andover, North Andover and South Lawrence. The focus has been mainly in the mid-basin and downstream areas. The idea there, as with the Ipswich Watershed cleanup, has been to pull out all the loose trash in mid-channel zones to free up the normal water flow, thus increasing the river's natural ability to clean itself while maintaining normal healthy habitat (biota) both in and surrounding the river and its tributaries. The amount of human borne, as well as natural debris, pulled from the river has been amazing in diversity (you don't even want to know), as well as total volume.

Joining a local cleanup campaign can be fun, rewarding work that benefits the entire community. And it doesn't hurt to pick up an empty soda can off the ground here or there, either.

Reading Light set new record July 14

The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) hit a new electric peak of 127 megawatts during a heat wave on Friday, July 14, 1995. The peak was the result of the increased number of customers on the system and use of electric air conditioners and fans as temperatures approached 100 degrees.

As a summer peaking utility, the RMLD reached its last peak, 123 megawatts, in July, 1994 during a similar heat wave.

Although there was ample power available throughout the RMLD system, the department reminds customers to use energy wisely this summer, particularly during a heat wave. There are several things customers can do to make sure everyone stays comfortable this summer:

- shut all windows shades and drapes when you leave for the day. This will keep the house cool while you're out.
- turn the air conditioner off when you leave the house, even if you're leaving for a few minutes.
- open the windows at night if the temperature cools down. Use a fan to draw the hot air from the house and the cool air in.
- when you return home at the end of the day, don't run the air conditioner on high. It takes only a few minutes to cool the room at a medium setting.
- avoid using the oven and keep covers on all pans as you use the stove.
- eat light, dress in light clothing, avoid strenuous activity, and drink plenty of fluids, eve if you're not thirsty.

Remember, too, that it's all right to use the air conditioner during hot weather, particularly if there are elderly residents or children in the house. The elderly should be encouraged to go to a place which is air conditioned; i.e. shopping malls, senior centers, movie theaters, or to a neighbor's house if they don't have air conditioning in their own homes. Check on them frequently to make sure they are all right during extreme heat conditions.

Wilmington firm announces record earnings

Ametek Inc. has announced that corporate earnings set a new second quarter record of 36 cents per share from continuing operations, exceeding by 38 percent the June 30, 1994, second quarter record of 26 cents per share.

Second quarter 1995 results from continuing operations produced the new earnings per share (E.P.S.) record, which includes sales increasing eight percent to $219.1 million, operating income rising 17 percent to $24.5 million, and income from continuing operations increasing 27 percent to $11.9 million, for the new second quarter record of 36 cents per share. Before adjusting for discontinued operations, earnings per share were 37 cents.

This compares to results from continuing operations in the second quarter of 1994: sales of $202.7 million, operating profit of $20.8 million, income from continuing operations of $9.4 million, or 26 cents per share. Before adjusting for discontinued operations, earnings per share were a record 27 cents per share.

Ametek completed its previously announced May 1995 sale of its Microfoam division for $37 million cash as part of its ongoing plan to enhance shareholder value. Microfoam's results are classified as discontinued operations in Ametek's income statement.

Income from discontinued operations was $.3 million, or one cent per share in the second quarter of both years, and the 1995 second quarter includes a $10.4 million (31 cents per share) after tax gain on the sale of the Microfoam division. This resulted in net income of $22.6 million, or 68 cents per share, for the second quarter of 1995, compared to net income of $9.7 million or 27 cents per share for the second quarter of 1994.

Since Melrose Humane Society is solely supported by donations for the daily and medical needs of the abandoned animals in our care such a successful fund raiser is greatly needed and appreciated.

Those considering adopting a new pet, interested in becoming a member of the Melrose Humane Society or who would like to participate in the low cost medical program offered for the preliminary care of a new pet, can call 617-662-3224 and leave a message in the appropriate voice mail box.

Thank you,

Readying the Boutwell

by Jeff Nazzaro

The walls are being painted, the floors are being stripped and waxed and the lights are getting changed. In another month, school will again be in session and all across town buildings will be getting the third degree with mops and brooms. But one building is being subjected to special treatment.

Town employees, under the supervision of Superintendent of Public Buildings Roger Lessard, are hard at work preparing the Boutwell School for its reopening this September, when it will welcome the town's entire kindergarten class plus pre-schoolers.

In succeeding years, grade school children will be added a grade at a time, until the Boutwell is a K-5 neighborhood school, as it was when it was originally in use.

The school, which was built in 1961 and is almost a mirror image of the circular Wilmington Town Hall, was closed down in the wake of Proposition 2 1/2 in the early 1980's.

Shortly after that, the Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center, a private, parochial pre-school, leased the building from the town, maintaining it during their stay.

Now, more than 10 years later, in response to a classroom over-crowding situation brought to the fore by teachers, school administrators and concerned parents, the Boutwell will reopen.

An attempt to reopen the school was tried through a Prop 2 1/2 override two years ago. After that measure failed a town vote, Town Manager Michael Caira stuck a record school increase into this year's budget, which was passed by town meeting and which allows for the school to reopen.

But first it is getting a facelift.

"A lot of work has been done in here in the last four weeks," Lessard said Monday afternoon. "We're kind of giving the whole building a facelift."

A lot of work has indeed gone into the building.

Over 150 clouded over Plexiglas windows have been replaced with better quality Lexon windows, which won't yellow or tarnish as quickly, Lessard said.

In addition, the entire outside and inside of the building have been painted, the outside by town employees, the inside with help from the Billerica House of Correction painting crew over the last three weeks.

Town workers have also stripped multiple layers of wax off the floors, and, before all is said and done, will have had a new alarm system installed and will have the school ready for its grand reopening this September.

Town employees Barry Ferrara (top left) and Steve Berghaus do windows. Here, they tend to the Boutwell School, which will be used by the Wilmington Public School System for the first time since the early 80's (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

Wilmington's "town drunk"

The tale of Jimmy Hale

by Capt. Larz Neilson

It was about 100 years ago when Jimmy Hale died in Wilmington. The exact date was November 1, 1898. Jimmy was the town drunk. Not many persons have spoken of him during the succeeding years.

He was a man who deserved some sympathy, but there were Wilmington residents who would turn up their noses at a mere mention of him.

New Hampshire born (Exeter) he arrived in Wilmington about 1845. Railroads in eastern Massachusetts were being constructed. Jimmy was a stone cutter, muscular, a man who could take a chisel and a hammer and split pieces of granite.

Granite was needed to build bridges, along the railroads, over and under streets, and over brooks.

At the Reading-Wilmington line, on Lowell Street, there is a bridge which spans Rt 93 and the railroad. In the days before Rt 93 the previous bridge over the railroad was known as Death Bridge, because of a curve in the roadway as it approached the bridge from either direction. It was Jimmy Hale who cut the granite used to support that bridge.

While in Wilmington he met a girl named Mary Ann Eames, daughter of a family on Woburn Street. They were married on May 14, 1846, and made a fine couple. This was after the railroad had been constructed through North Wilmington.

A home was built off Woburn Street and Eames Street, near the present location of Raffi & Swanson. Jimmy got a job in a Woburn shop as a stamp metal cutter. Six children were born to that couple, the last being Susanna, also known as Aunt Suzy, a lady who came home to live in Wilmington in 1952.

When the Civil War started, thousands of men enlisted as volunteers. Many Woburn artisans tried to enlist in the Second Regiment, Massachusetts, the first recruited in Massachusetts after the attack at Fort Sumter.

The Second Regiment did not accept the Woburn artisans. They were not young enough. The Second Massachusetts was seeking young men. Five young men from the Butters Row area of Wilmington were accepted, one of whom was Ted Butters. He died of wounds received at Gettysburg.

Unable to join the Second Massachusetts, the Woburn artisans joined up with the Henry Wilson Regiment on August 10, 1861. James Hale, 35 years old, was one of those men.

Henry Wilson was a United States Senator who was forming his "own" Regiment. A popular man, he had been elected and reelected a United States Senator. His regiment became the Massachusetts Twenty-Second and went to camp at Camp Schouler, in Lynnfield, on September 2.

On October 26 Henry Wilson was replaced by a regular army officer, Colonel Jesse Gove. Jimmy Hale and the other Woburn men were in Company F.

The regiment was sent to Virginia. It was on a place known forever afterwards as "The Peninsular." The idea was to march across Virginia, 80 miles to Richmond.

General McLellan was in command. He was an officer who could arouse enthusiasm among the soldiers, but who rarely won battles.

The Twenty Second was in a number of battles during the next few months. The first in which it was heavily engaged was at Fredericksburg, on the banks of the Rappahonnock River.

The Union Army faced General Robert E. Lee and Generals Longstreet and Stonewall Jackson and was completely defeated. About 12,000 Union soldiers were killed at Fredericksburg.

Another severe battle was at Chancellorsville, May 1 to May 4. The Twenty-Second was not involved, but the men in that regiment knew the losses were severe. Yankee officers, it seemed, could not out-general Robert E. Lee.

The Confederates marched north and so did the Yankees, to a place in Pennsylvania known as Gettysburg. Just before the armies clashed President Lincoln made a change in command. General Meade was to command the Union Armies

But there were Yankee soldiers who did not know. They had deserted at Frederick, Maryland on June 29, 1863. Among them was Jimmy Hale.

The penalty for desertion was the firing squad. Jimmy Hale, somehow, got back to Massachusetts and seemed to be welcomed.

The Twenty-Second was heavily engaged in the battle at Devil's Den, but Jimmy Hale had made his way home to his wife, Mary Ann.

Nothing seems to have been said by other persons. Jimmy resumed work in Woburn. The last child, Orin, was born in 1867.

But Mary Ann left Jimmy. She went to live with her grandfather, Benjamin Buck, in his home, now the oldest in Wilmington, on Buck's Hill, where Wildwood Street joins Woburn Street. Benjamin Buck took care of his granddaughter and her children.

Suzy Hale became, one could say, the janitor of the East School, still standing. She would sweep out the school every morning and start the fire in the stove. This she did for about 10 years. Then she left home to work in Haverhill.

Suzy Hale returned to Wilmington about 1952, and lived in what is now the Callan House on Woburn Street. This writer, the late Stanley Webber and the late Harold Melzar would have understood of the days of which she talked. But she was living in a different world, after the second World War.

Aunt Suzy was proud of her father. She understood how the soldiers in the Union Army could see no advantage in being killed because there was no competent general to lead them.

It was from Aunt Suzy that this writer heard of the Pearson murders. She knew the story because of the part that Jimmy Hale had in that event.

Martha Pearson and her twin daughters, four years two months and 24 days old were murdered by their father Daniel H. Pearson on April 10, 1849. Their home was on Andover Street in Wilmington.

Next morning neighbors gathered near the house. No one dared to enter. Everyone suspected the worst.

Jimmy Hale came up the street, went up to the back window, threw up the sash and stepped inside. There he found the mother and her two daughters, red with blood.

It was Otis Carter, the Wilmington Constable, who trailed Person to the Wilmington railroad station. There was no station in North Wilmington in those days. Otis lived on Glen Road, above the Wildcat railroad crossing. His home was where the second home, on the right, is today.

Otis was able to trail Pearson because that individual had just repaired his shoes. He had put on a new sole. There was a conspicuous knife mark as a result, Otis trailed him to the Wilmington railroad station by that mark, in the road bed. There Pearson had taken the train.

Person had gone to Boston, and then to New York by steamer.

The chairman of the Wilmington Selectmen was Lemuel Cobb Eames. He lived in the Eames house on Woburn Street, at the head of Wildwood Street. He offered a $50 reward for the capture of Daniel Pearson.

Eames was called "Lem" by the hired men, and "Cobb" by the people who went to church with him.

Cobb Eames went to Boston several times, looking for Daniel Pearson. It was after several tries that Daniel Pearson was found. Pearson was working as an hostler - a man who keeps care of horses.

Cobb Eames persuaded Daniel Pearson to go to North Wilmington with him, to "help capture the murderer."

Because there was no railroad station in North Wilmington they had to get off the train in Reading. Otis Carter, the Wilmington Constable, was waiting at the station.

Otis snapped a pair of handcuffs on Daniel Pearson.

Pearson turned to Cobb Eames and said "Lem, efen I'd a knowed you was gonna do this, you'd a never left Boston!"

A few weeks later Pearson was hanged, in Boston.

Aunt Suzy was proud of her daddy, the only person who had dared to enter the Pearson home after the murders. She was proud of him in other ways, too.

"You know" she said to this writer, "He liked a spot of tea!"

And she would laugh, lightly.

Jimmy Hale ended up living in a house on Hopkins Street, on the northwest side (Billerica line). It was a ramshackle place which was torn down some years after his death. He did have a horse and a wagon and he did work, on occasion.

When this writer was a young man he would hear men, employed by his father, talking with each other in the early morning while waiting for his father's truck to take them to the place where they would work that day. Often they spoke of their drinking the night before. "As drunk as Jimmy Hale" was a phrase often used.

Wilmington, in the days after the Civil War, had its own Prohibition law. The only liquor store in Wilmington was owned by the Nichols family on Wildwood Street at the corner of Middlesex Avenue.

Once a year that family would report to the town on how many bottles they had sold, and to whom the sales had been made. Jimmy Hale and his friends never had their names on the list given to the selectmen.

But, Jimmy, every few weeks would make a trip to Woburn, where beverages were sold openly. That would occur on a Saturday afternoon.

Capt. George and Mary Ann McIntosh lived on Main Street, about half way between Butters Row and the junction of the present Lowell Street and Main Street. They had a substantial farmhouse.

Every now and then, at about 3 a.m. on a Sunday, Mary Ann would hear the hoofs of Jimmy's horse, as he returned from Woburn, as the wagon came over the hill at Butters Row.

Mary Ann would get up, throw a shawl over her night dress and go out and stop the horse. She would unshackle the horse and put it in the barn. Then she would rub it down and feed it.

Jimmy would be in the back of the wagon, insensible.

Sometime after 6 a.m., Mary Ann would hook up the horse, head him toward Shawsheen Avenue and give him a slap on the rump. The horse always got home. Jimmy would wake up some time later.

Mary Ann was a person who was highly appreciated in the Wilmington community.

Jimmy Hale was a person who had died over a dozen years before this writer was born. In Wilmington he was not appreciated because of his alcoholic habits.

This writer has always had a sympathy for him. A brave man, he was in the Union Army in the days when Abraham Lincoln could not find a man who could win battles.

Jimmy was not killed, in any of those battles. Some will say he exhibited common sense, in his desertion, just before the Battle of Gettysburg.

WHOM DOES "YOUR" AGENT REPRESENT?

Until recently a realtor usually represented the sellers, whether acting as the listing agent or the agent who drafted the buyers' offer. Misunderstandings about this arrangement have led to disputes and ultimately resulted in reforms in the disclosure laws and real estate practices around the country.

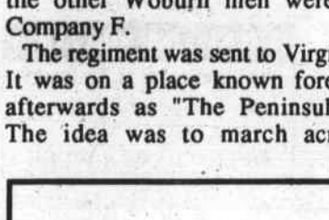

Today realtors usually begin a professional relationship with prospective buyers by discussing how they work, whom they represent and how their fees are paid. Buyer brokers are becoming more common in many cities. This representation gives purchasers the opportunity to have a professional look after their interests and advise them on strategies for getting the best price and most favorable terms. If you are in a city where the buyers broker concept has not caught on, the sales representative you work with has a legal obligation to be fair and honest with you, to provide the information you request, and to help you with financing and the closing details.

For professional advice on buying or selling real estate, please drop by our office in the Starwood Building at 299 Main Street, or call us at 657-8444.

AAJ TRAVEL, INC.

474 Main Street, Wilmington, MA 01887
(508) 657-7400

Planning that long awaited family vacation, a weekend getaway, or maybe just a day trip? Overwhelmed by trying to find the best rates, coordinate your reservations, buy insurance? RELAX... Let AAJ Travel do all the work – while you look forward to your vacation!

What are today's travel trends? "Lately people seem to be taking shorter trips," says owner, Jane Fudge. "Of course, we still do business trips, family vacations, and lots of cruises. Cruises to Mexico, the Caribbean, or anywhere are really popular now because they're all-inclusive." Also popular are AAJ's day trips to New York City by motor coach: in the spring for the Easter Extravaganza, and in the fall for the Christmas Show.

Whether you're planning to travel by plane, boat, bus or train... across the state, or around the world... AAJ's experienced staff can handle the details. They've been in the travel business since 1981 and some of their agents have been there for 10 years. If you've just noticed their office, and think they're new in town, that's because last year they moved to their current (and more visible) location – 474 Main St., next door to D&D Lock.

AAJ Travel is open 8:30 - 5:00 Monday thru Friday, and evenings by appointment. Call them, and make that "dream vacation" a reality.

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

Stone's in the Garden

Like your's, my garden is being kept alive through this summer's drought by watering and extra attention. At times like these the whole garden needs additional TLC to keep everything green, but a walk through my garden (and an honest look at past year's garden notes) reminds me that several areas need the same extra attention every year.

My enthusiasm for New England style perennial beds inspired the creation of flower beds in several in dry, inappropriate locations. Gardens have been planted under trees, around the mailbox (where the soil is almost non-existent) and in sunny areas where the solar radiation is doubled by reflections off the roof and windows. Gardens in such areas are not impossible. They just need extra care. But why buck the tide (and the growing conditions) in these locations. Why not select plans that are already adapted for dry areas?

Xeriscaping is the art of designing landscapes for arid locations. In the south west xeriscape techniques create sophisticated landscape designs using native plants such as cactus, yucca, sage and ornamental grasses. Native plants, or ornamental cultivars of natives, are used in California, where drought conditions occur frequently. There, native plants including sedums, ice plants and oleanders are used to create xeriscaped roadside gardens. Few of these plants will grow in our New England climate. Nor should we attempt to recreate our homey gardens into modern, west coast style landscapes. Rather we should select plants that are appropriate for each location in our own garden climate and import some of the xeriscaping philosophy that our western cousins have learned.

Many drought resistant trees, shrubs and perennial plants are available that thrive in New England landscapes. Stately Red Cedars (Juniperus Virginiana), Honey Locust (Gleditsia) and our own native White Pine are tall trees that can grow to 30 feet, that adapt to dry conditions. For a small dry garden try the Autumn Olive. It's silvery gray leaves are an excellent 12 foot tall addition to any dry location.

Many colorful and flowering shrubs can be found on a list of drought tolerant plants for our climate. The purple leaves of the Japanese Barberry (Berberis Thunbergi) are an excellent complement to a green backdrop. Flowering Rosa Rugusa is a rugged bloomer that is often used in roadside plantings. This hardy rose can tolerate wind blown, seashore conditions and can survive even in California's dry climate. Rugusa roses are available in white and pink flowering forms. The Potentilla is another flowering shrub for dry locations. It's sunny yellow-to-white blossoms cover this low, front-of-the-border shrub all summer.

Careful choice of perennials for dry locations can provide a summer full of color with minimal watering. Tall plants, for the back of the border, include yucca, baby's breath (Gypsophila), cornflower (Rudbeckia) and many colorful ornamental grasses (Miscanthus Sinensis).

Lower growing plants for arid locations include, Euphorbia Epithymaides (cushion euphorbia), Gaillordia (blanket flower), America (thrift), Coreopsis (Tick seed), Salvia Supurba (Sage) and a variety of silver leafed plants.

Artemesias are fine foliage plants with a blue-silver color. The foliage brightens up any dry area. Choice artemisias include Powis Castle, Silver Brocade, Silver Mound and reliable Dusty Miller.

Lastly - one of the best late blooming perennials for arid spots is New England's own blue aster. Many hybrid varieties are now available.

I am planning to change a few garden beds, with an eye toward their dry growing conditions. Maybe I can save a few drops of water and have my garden too.

Local officers take third place at SWAT Challenge

by Ken Maguire

Twenty Swat teams from around New England and New York finished up two days of competition recently at Camp Curtis Guild with a local contingent taking overall first place in the 1995 Swat Challenge.

The Northeast Metropolitan Law Enforcement Council (NEMLEC) sent two teams. Team A took first place overall and Team B was close behind in third place. NEMLEC is a group comprised of police officers from 25 area communities (including Wilmington and Tewksbury) trained to handle drug raids, kidnapping and hostage situations and other major emergencies that can be too much for a small police department.

In the midst of brutal heat and humidity, the teams competed in four events: the multi-gun shoot; five man tag team; the officer rescue course; and the obstacle course. Two events were held a day and the awards were presented at Austin Prep.

A branch NEMLEC is the Tactical Police Force/Special Operation Unit. Most of the officers in the SWAT competition are from the TPF/SOU, whose commander is Reading's Lt. Robert Silva. He organized the Swat Challenge, the first of its size ever in New England. Smaller versions have been held in recent years in Dover, N.H.

"Everything worked out well," Silva said after the Challenge wrapped up. "Nobody got hurt."

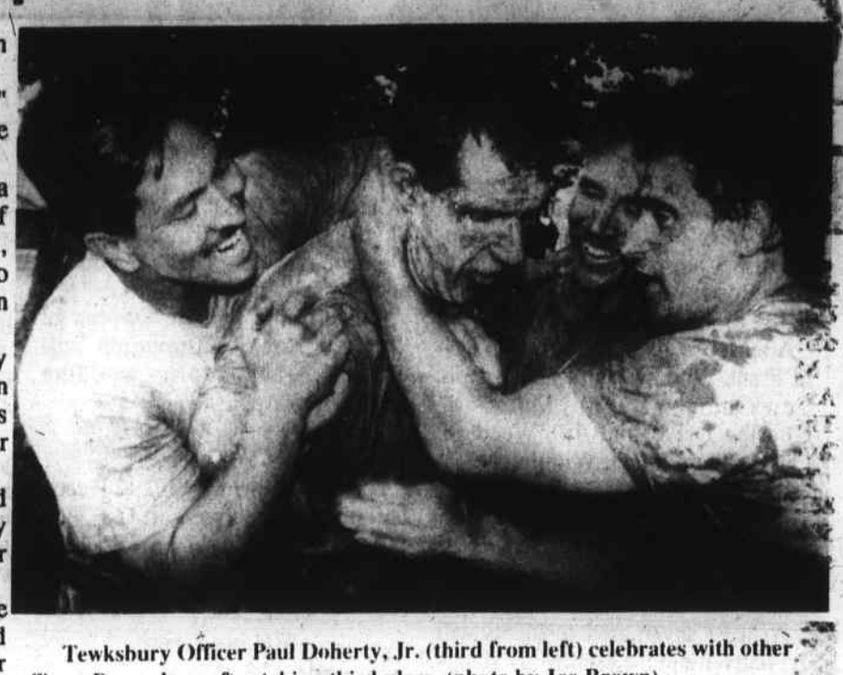

While the Challenge was a regional affair, it still had a lot of local flavor. In addition to Silva, Reading Plm. Jim Cormier, also an SOU member, assisted in organizational matters.

Tewksbury was represented by their Canine Officer Tim Sheehan and Officer Paul Doherty, Jr. was on Team B which placed third over all.

Wilmington officer Joe Desmond performed support duties, Larry Redding served as a range officer and Chris Neville as honor guard.

Wakefield's George Thistle participated on Team B and retired Col. John Encarnaco former commander of the Massachusetts National Guard at Camp Curtis was on hand as well. Wakefield Lt. Ron LeBlanc, an SOU member, also helped out.

Winchester's Lt. Fran Manzie was on the championship Team A, ass was Burlington's Charlie Ferguson. Burlington also had Harry Sawyer on Team B with Tim McDonough assisting. Also assisting were Woburn SOU members Steve Marshall and Det. Rick Jolly.

Silva hopes to arrange another Swat Challenge next year. He said bringing all the teams together for a competition is beneficial in several ways.

"It's not just competition, it's training too," Silva said during the officer rescue event. "We do two hours of training in the morning. We want to unify and organize."

Silva said the teams will be able to learn from each other and apply those skills on the street when it counts.

Many town managers, mayors and police chiefs from NEMLEC cities and towns attended parts of the Challenge.

"They're seeing the results of our hard work and training," Silva said.

Local teacher updates physics skills

Lisa M. Richard was one of two dozen area high school physics and physical sciences teachers who spent three weeks of their summer vacation in school. All were participants in Update, a University of Mass., Lowell program designed to make topics in contemporary physics more accessible to teachers and their students. Funded by the National Science Foundation, Update is conducted collaboratively by the physics faculty from the

Lisa M. Richard

University of Mass. campuses at Amherst, Boston, Dartmouth and Lowell.

Richard, a resident of Tewksbury, is on the science faculty at Tyngsboro High School.

This summer's Update program focused lectures, laboratory projects, field trips and presentation son space physics and quantum physics. In addition to UMass Lowell professors Dr. Aram Karakashian, space lecturer and Dr. Partha Chowdhury, quantum lecturer, guest lecturers included NASA astronauts Dr. Janice Voss and Mike Mullane; Dr. Joseph Gavin, Jr., director of the Apollo Lunar Module Program from 1962 to 1971 and president of Grumman Corp. from 1972-76; and Dr. Daniel Greenberger of the City College of New York, an internationally recognized researcher in quantum theory.

The first two weeks of the Update program were conducted at the Lowell campus and included hands-on activities at the University's Center for Atmospheric Research, where Dr. Bodo Reinisch, professor of electrical engineering and director of the center, described his upper atmospheric research program. The final week was conducted in residence at Amherst, where participants from all four campuses had opportunities to interact informally with the guest lecturers.Update participants will continue to meet with University faculty during the school year to develop new lessons, activities, and demonstrations for their classrooms.

"One significant aspect of this program" said ULowell program director and professor of physics Dr. David Pullen, "is that teachers see how the fundamentals they teach directly relate to current research. They see how they can fold contemporary issues into their own presentations to make physics more exciting for themselves and their students."

Tewksbury scores big on Iowa Test

The results of the March 1995 administration of the Iowa Test of Basic Skills are in, and they show that Tewksbury students are performing exceptionally well, substantially above expectations for their grade levels, when compared to national norms. This is not a new phenomenon, and it demonstrates that Tewksbury students continue to master the basic skills of reading, writing, studying and computing.

In Grade 2, for example, Word Attack (phonics) scores reached 4.0 grade equivalent, meaning that Tewksbury second grade students are over one year ahead of the national average in the ability to analyze new roads. Tewksbury's new emphasis on phonics in contest through the Won Way program is paying dividends.

Grade 4 students scored especially well in Reading Comprehension, Capitalization, Word Usage and Use of Visuals. The reading score is an early indication of positive results from the new elementary reading series.

High points in the sixth grade scores were: Spelling, Word Usage, Reference Skills, and Math Concepts. High math concept scores show the effects of the Scott Foresman NCTM based math program adopted in 1993.

Eighth graders received high marks for Capitalization, Punctuation, and Word Usage, as well as Reference Skills. Two eighth grade subtests dipped below grade level expectations: Vocabulary and Math Computation. We should note that, in the entire test process, these were the only two sub-tests that were below grade expectations out of a possible 43 - and that Vocabulary was within the range of being explained by test variation.

Math computation in grade 8 has troubled Tewksbury students for the past three years. Starting in the 1993-94 school year, all eighth grade students began the study of algebra. This change began to increase the focus on algebra, a conceptual subject that is the foundation for all intermediate and advanced high school math. Most math computation in grade 8 is embedded in a new conceptual language - of symbols, equations, signed integers - and students, in accordance with the NCTM standards and expectations of the College Board Exams (S.A.T.s), are mastering the use of calculators for this computation.

The 8th grade math computation sub-test is a power test of rote memory, and the value of using this test has been called into question, especially in view of the state's clear move toward Open Ended Question to test not only math but all subjects.

This is an issue that will be considered during the 1995-96 school year.

For more information contact Dr. Joseph C. Walsh, Director of Curriculum, Tewksbury Public Schools, 139 Pleasant St., Tewksbury, MA 01876; 508-851-6044.

Wilmington senior topics

Nutrition class

The first nutrition class of August will be held in the craft room Tuesday, August 8. This class is a must for most of our seniors. It is a great help for those trying to stay on a prescribed diet. Very helpful for seniors with heart problems, diabetes and those diagnosed with cancer ailments.

Seniors now in the class attend faithfully because they are getting so much out of it. It is not only a class to help on eat right, it is also a wonderful support group.

Renewed interest

Many seniors have asked for classes in sewing, knitting and crocheting. These seem to be crafts that had, for some reason lost their interest. Now the interest is beginning to be renewed. Some seniors are willing to teach others how to sew. This will be cutting a pattern on a piece of material, mending, sewing up hems, etc. Another senior will teach others to crochet and knit, another embroidery. The class will be held Thursdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and will be free to Wilmington residents.

The Center has material to work with. All one needs to is do the class. Why sit home and try to find something to keep yourself busy? Join the class. You will have plenty to keep you busy while making useful items.

Shop class

The shop class is busy making small toys for the seniors Christmas Fair and themselves. The group meets each Thursday morning at nine and other seniors in the class will be grateful for your help and you can be proud of what you learn and happy to display your work in the fair.

Four months away

The fair is only four months away. Some very nice articles are being offered for the tables, but a lot more mittens and other knitted and crocheted articles will be needed to satisfy all the children. Every year these are the fastest selling articles, along with the children's articles such as the doll table and toys. We have yarn at the center for you if you will make a knitted article; material for cloth articles and wood for toys. We need everyone helping as we have in the past years to make the Fair a success.

A large part of the money made at the fair comes from the chance books. As Wilmington seniors participating in activities in the Buzzell Senior Center, we are unique. We can join in on any class or activity program with no cost to us. We can enjoy a cup of coffee and a donut in the kitchen free of charge. We pay a very small stipend to attend a social, the larger part is paid through the department budget. To do our part in keeping all the above free to all, we try to earn enough money on the Senior Fair to buy all the equipment and supplies needed for our classes and programs and for two socials. If we all take a book or two it will make a good start in reaching our goal. Remember the money earned on the Fair is invested in all of us, to allow us to join in on any activity whether it be in the center or in the home. If the $5 cost of the book is too much for you, ask a family member or friend. The prizes are all money and anyone can use that. They will be happy to take a book for you.

Sing-a-long

The August Sing-a-Long will be held in the function room next Wednesday, August 9. Socialization with a bag lunch at noon in the kitchen, followed in the function room singing your favorite songs along with fellow seniors accompanied on the piano by Dot Phillips. What better way to spend these terribly hot, humid days of summer, but to go to the air conditioned Senior Center and push the blues away?

Wilmington Senior All-Stars lose in state championship

In a game that closely resembled a roller coaster ride, Wilmington's Senior All Stars came up against a tough Auburn team and fell short in their quest for a state title, losing 12-8 in eight innings.

At noon on Saturday, the Wilmington team, and their fans, boarded a bus and headed west (to Easthampton) for the 4:00pm game at Booster Park. Wilmington pitcher Scott Swiezynski made his fourth All Star start, and a hard-hitting Auburn team came up with two runs in the first inning. Swiezynski quickly settled down however, throwing a total of twelve pitches to six batters in the second and third. In the meantime, Wilmington scored one run in the second when Vinnie DiMauro singled, went to second on a wild pitch, reached third on Ralph Sirignano's single, and then scored on another wild pitch.

At the end of three innings, a sudden deluge sent everyone scurrying. The rain lasted for less than ten minutes but it took over an hour to make the field playable.

Auburn came up swinging again in the fourth and scored one run on two hits and an error. But, in the bottom of the inning, Wilmington took the lead when Vinnie DiMauro singled and went to third on Ralph Sirignano's double. Both runs scored on Dave DeAmato's double, and Wilmington led 4-3.

Not for long, however. In the top of the fifth, Auburn got one back and the game was tied... for the moment. Joe Grasso walked to lead off the bottom of the inning, went to second on a wild pitch, and then Dan Sweet moved him to third with a sacrifice bunt. Things looked good for Wilmington, but then the rains came... again. After nearly an hour, the heroic efforts of the grounds crew enabled the teams to retake the field. Vinnie DiMauro laced a single to right center, scoring Joe Grasso. Dennis Ingram walked, Ralph Sirignano knocked in two runs with his second double (and third hit) of the game, and Wilmington led 6-4.

Swiezynski struck out two and got the side in order in the sixth. Wilmington went quietly in the bottom of the inning.

The game was nearly four hours old when Swiezynski gave up a lead-off single in the seventh. P.J. Heffernan came in to pitch and should have been out of the inning with ease. The first batter hit into a fielder's choice, erasing the lead runner. The next batter walked, putting runners on first and second. Wilmington should have had its second out on a fielder's choice, but an error left the bases loaded. An infield error on the next play allowed one run to score, and kept the bases loaded. That's when Auburn's number six hitter came up and smashed a double to deep right, clearing the bases and giving them an 8-6 lead. Heffernan got the next two batters on a ground-out and a pop-out, but the damage was done.

Not so fast. In the bottom of the seventh, Jim O'Donnell led off with a single and Vinnie DiMauro's fourth single of the game moved him to second. With two outs, Dave DeAmato singled to bring in both runs and tie the game.

Auburn was unstoppable in the eighth, scoring four runs on five hits. Wilmington managed to get its first two batters on base, but the rally was cut short as darkness fell.

"We gave it our all and never quit," said Manager Dana Sweet. "Auburn is a great hitting team. We just gave them one chance too many. This Wilmington team is championship caliber, and they certainly showed it throughout the All Star season."

With the victory, Auburn was scheduled to play the Vermont winner on Tuesday. The winner of that game will head to New Jersey for the Eastern U.S. title.

Road to finals

by James Pote

Even though the Wilmington Senior League All-Star Baseball team lost in the state finals to Auburn on Saturday, by a score of 12-8, it took big strides to get to that ever exciting point.

And last Thursday, the team traveled to, and defeated, Chelmsford 5-3, in the semi-finals, despite torturous heat - and it was an interesting ending, to say the least.

Wilmington was ahead 5-2 going into the last inning. Vinny Dimauro pitched six solid innings, giving up two earned runs on four hits and five walks, while striking out three. It was obvious that he was tiring towards the latter part of the game - especially since he threw 94 pitches in extremely hot weather (60 of those were strikes). Head coach Dana Sweet lifted Dimauro and he entered Ralph Sirigano for the save in the top of the seventh.

The first batter in the seventh for Chelmsford walked on four pitches. The top of the order followed and that brought an out when the lead-off batter grounded to third to force the runner at second. Still, one on and one out and ahead by three runs.

The next batter followed with another walk on four pitches and that brought Sweet out to to the mound to talk to his new pitcher - who was extremely nervous.

After Sweet walked back to the dugout, the third batter in the order pop up to the mound for the second out of the inning. That brought up the clean-up hitter, who dribbled the ball down the third baseline, where it was too tough to make a play on. One run had already scored, but the runner coming from second that was on third, over ran the base and Dimauro threw over to shortstop Peter Grasso, who was covering third to get the runner out and earn Wilmington a spot in the state finals.

"This was a great ending for a great game. Both Vinny and Ralph pitched well - it was an all around good game for everyone," said Dana Sweet.

Wilmington started out of the gate with a quick 3-0 lead. In the first inning, Dan Sweet doubled to the fence in left center to score lead-off hitter P.J. Heffernan for the early 1-0 lead. In the second inning, Heffernan hit a scorcher off the pitcher's glove which was scooped up by the second baseman, for a 1-4-3 putout to score Peter Grasso. The next batter Joe Grasso (no relation), singled home Scott Swiezynski to take the 3-0 lead.

Chelmsford blasted their first run as their ninth batter in the order took a 1-1 fastball over the right field fence for a solo homerun and that closed the game to 3-1 in favor of Wilmington.

The score stayed that way until the bottom of the fifth, when Sirigano singled home both Dave DeAmato and Dennis Ingram for what would be the game winning hit - Chelmsford added one of their own in the sixth before one in the seventh on a balk call on Dimauro.

All but one of Wilmington's players reached base safely. The team managed seven hits in the game and their only miscue was leaving eight runners on base - four of those were in scoring position.

Defense was Wilmington's strong point in the game. The team didn't commit one error and they made several outstanding plays. One of those happened in the third inning when Chelmsford's lead-off batter smacked a solid one hopper to third baseman Scott Swiezynski, who made a goaltender swipe save type of play, to preserve an extra base hit.

Dan Sweet also made several nice catches in center field, while, Joe Grasso continued to be a defensive stand-out behind the plate. Joe threw out one key runner trying to steal in the sixth inning, while, he also blocked everything in sight.

Four locals take part in losing end of Carole Classic

by James Pote
from a story by Steve Algeri
of the Daily Times Chronicle

Perhaps the Middlesex League should have a touring all-star football team. It seems to be quite successful uniting as a league and playing hard, inspired football.

For the second straight year, the ML put the wood to the Merrimack Valley as it posted a 21-7 victory on Thursday night before 4200 at Cawley Stadium.

The game, which is sponsored by the Daily Times Chronicle and the Lowell Sun, will benefit The Carole Fund, a non-profit organization which supports the recuperation of young cancer patients.

Between Wilmington and Tewksbury, the Merrimack Valley squad had four members of the two towns on its team. Steve O'Neill, notably a fearless running back, said he was glad he played but it wasn't as much fun as he thought because he didn't play his position. Rather, he was a strong safety and and a member of the punt return team in which he answered with a 32 yard gain on his only chance to show off his running skills.

"I was happy to play, but I wish I could of ran the ball," he said.

"It was nice to play against the best and with the best - I met a lot of nice people," he continued.

From Tewksbury were George Rodgers, Scott Haddad and Greg Nota.

Rodgers was an offensive tackle and despite others saying he had a great game, Rodgers was modest as he thought he could of played a lot better.

"I thought I could have played better if I was on the field a little bit more," said Rodgers, who will be leaving August ninth for a junior college in Kansas to play his favorite sport.

He says he hopes to try out in his normal position of offensive tackle or guard but he also said "There is a lot of big guys out there and I'm probably about the size of the halfbacks."

Haddad, who was told he was playing defensive end just two days prior to the game instead of his usual linebacker spot, said he enjoyed the game very much and in those two days, he learned a lot and he will take that with him to UMass-Lowell's team, who along with O'Neill will begin camp August 18th.

"It was a great feeling to be named one of the top seniors in the league. It was great to help the kids with cancer and I was very glad I played - it was a great experience," Haddad said.

Finally for the locals was Greg Nota, who was the starting offensive guard. He also said he liked the game a lot.

"I loved it. It was nice to play with different players. I liked the coaches a lot - I learned so much," he continued.

Nota will also continue his football days at UNH where he will tryout for offensive guard when he leaves August tenth.

But, to no avail of the locals who performed on the MVC team, the Middlesex team again played the more inspired, and better prepared football game. This game appears to be serious stuff for this proud league and if its opponent don't start getting in step, this may be a lopsided series.

"Everyone says throughout the league that we are the best balanced league one through ten in the state," said Burlington coach Shawn Maguire. "The coaches all get along, all ten of us, we socialize off the field and are all great people.

"We preach to the kids to play good, hard - nosed football and to respect your teammates. There is no bull crap," said ML co-coach along with Wakefield's Ray Boghos.

Boghos was happy with his Warrior contingent as Middlesex Offensive MVP Matt Shevlin of Wakefield bulled his way for 94 yards on 19 carries with a touchdown.

Darrin Conley pulled a rarity, playing both ways in an all-star game. Conley had a 14-yard run for a touchdown while also leading the ML in tackling with five stops from his linebacking spot.

"They didn't miss a beat, Shevlin and Conley handled themselves well," beamed the Warrior coach. "Kids like (Mike) Khachadoorian (who had a sack) and (DB) Tom Chapman weren't all-stars in our league, but we knew they could contribute."

And contribute everyone did for the Middlesex League which controlled the tempo of the game. The ML controlled things offensively, outgaining the MVC 317-99 and running 61 plays to 28.

The game was tied, 7-7, at the half, but then Burlington's Mike D'Agostino, playing linebacker, intercepted a Matt Cassano pass on the first snap of the second half. D'Agostino, who was named the ML'S Defensive MVP because of the momentum-swinging pick, returned the interception 12 yards to the MVC 30.

Three plays later, Conley made his first carry count for 14 yards and a TD with a straightahead burst through the middle of the line. Matt Gordon added the point and the ML was in the lead to stay, 14-7.

The MVC appeared poised to answer and took the ensuing kickoff deep into ML territory, but a clipping penalty backed it up to near midfield. A first down moved it to the ML 43, but Khacadoorian sacked Cassano on first down and two incompletions halted the drive.

After the punt, the ML started on its 15 and would go the 85 yards on 14 plays taking 8:58 off the second half clock for the score.

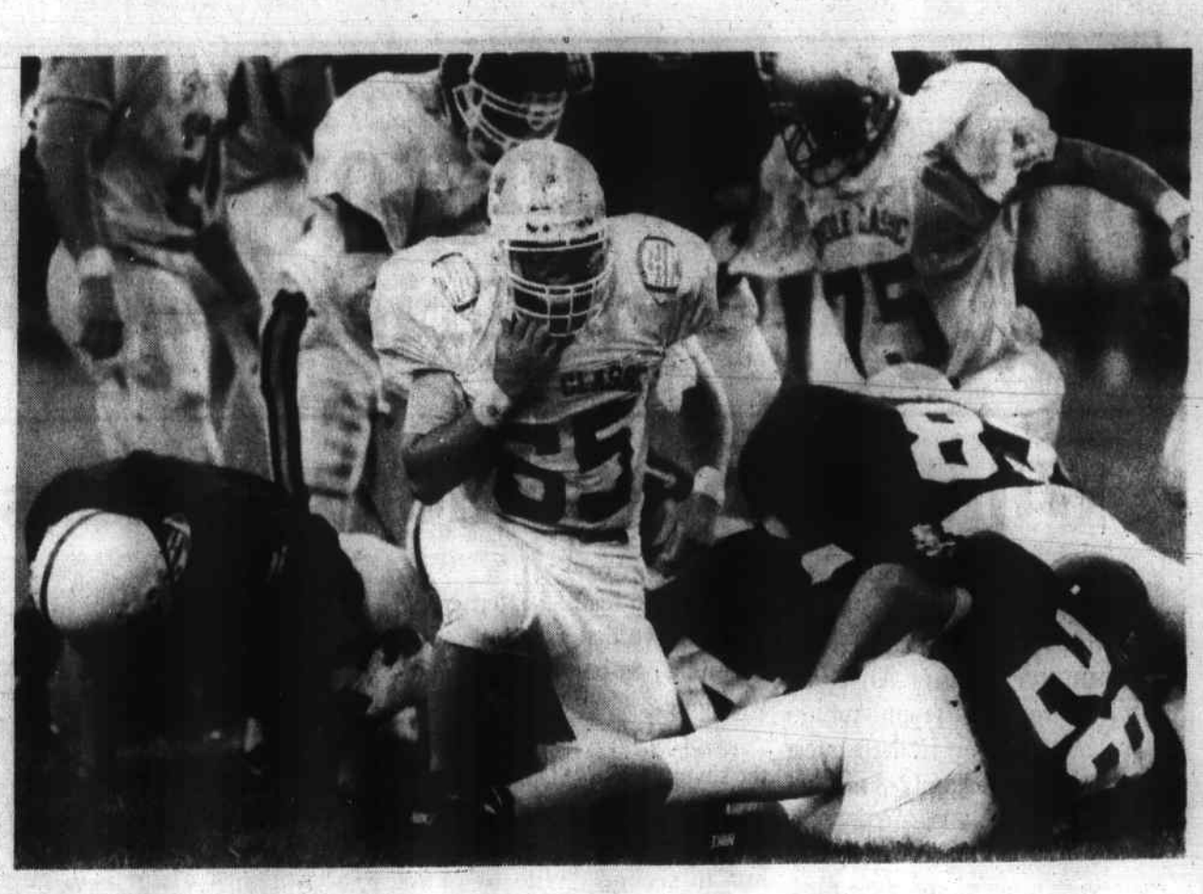

It was primarily the Warrior backfield combination of Shevlin and Conley doing the bulk of the ground work. Belmont QB Doug Connolly hooked up with Reading tight end Brian Burbine for 18 yards and a first down which was aided up an additional 15-yard personal foul penalty on the MVC.

Shevlin took it in from one of the insurance points.

In the first half, both offenses moved the ball. Showing the Burlington offense with its overloads and passing schemes, the ML moved to the MVC 31, but Central Catholic's Darwin Santos made a nice juggling interception of Connolly in the end zone.

The Merrimack Valley scored its first points in this two-year series with an 80 yard march. The big play was a 35-yard completion from Cassano to Central Catholic teammate Nick Krippendorf down to ML eleven. Haverhill's Adam Thoeharris scored one from the one and Lowell's Dan Martin added the conversion for a 7-0 lead at the time.

"They [Middlesex League] played well, that's the story," said MVC co-coach Dennis Scannell. "We're 3-0 against them in Super Bowls, but 0-2 here. That means we've got to keep our mouths shut for another year."

Wilmington sofball teams enjoy weekend

The Wildcat Girls Softball Association hosted a 12 and under and 14 and under tournament this past weekend that ended up being not only tons of fun, very competitive and tremendously successful, but also gave all the young ladies a great chance to meet girls they will be competing against for years to come.

Teams from Taunton, Stoughton, Franklin, Dracut, Townsend, Chelmsford, Amesbury, Westport, Worcestor, Andover, Northbridge and Wilmington competed in one of the better invitationals so far this summer.

In the 12 and under level the Merrimack Valley Lighting (Billerica, Tewksbury, Chelmsford) defeated the Wilmington team in the finals 4-2. MV finishing 6-0 Wilmington finishing 5-1 on the weekend. The surprise team of the tournament being the Andover Team coached by Wilmington High School girls Basketball Coach Jim Tildsley, who lost in the semifinals.

In the 14 and under level the Bay State Blaze out of Stoughton defeated the Taunton Blue Devils 5-4 for the championship. While the Wilmington entry took the third place trophy defeating the Dracut Jaquars in the consolation game 9-6.

Playing well for Wilmington during the weekend were Kristin Thomas, Megan Sullivan, Michelle McGonagle, Lauren McCarthy, Robin Mainini and Maura Lynch at the 14 and under level as well as Jaqui Rubino, Jennifer Gillis, Katie Sullivan, Kim Thomas, Candice Souza, Lisa Antonangeli, Colleen Cahill and Sara Collings at the 12 and under level.

This weekend the Wildcat 12 and unders will travel to Taunton while the 14's will be in Fitchburg. Hopefully the young Ladies continue to improve and play the way they have all season.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?
by Edward H. Wilkens

TERM INSURANCE

QUESTION: Here's a simple question for you. What is term insurance?

ANSWER: Term life insurance is written for a specified period of time — usually five, ten, fifteen or twenty years. The face value of the policy is payable only if the death of the insured occurs during period of the policy.

Nothing is paid if the insured is still living at the end of the term. When the term ends, the insured stops paying and the protection stops. Premiums for this type of insurance are relatively low. However, as a person grows older, the cost increases.

Term insurance is recommended when temporary protection is needed.

WITH TERM INSURANCE, premiums are lower, but you can outlive your policy.

An early glance at WHS Fall sports

by James Pote

Another high school sports season is about to begin in about a month from now here in Wilmington. This year, however, the entire sports program took a new route - that is the Cape Ann League.

If you have an early taste of what is upcoming of this year's fall sports like I do, than here's an early glance of what to expect.

Football - It's pretty hard to say how this team will do. If the team who has a lot of talent shows up and plays like they can, they could be a surprise. But, if the team shows up and goes through the motions, than we will see another miserable season.

The quarterback situation is up in the air and whoever wants it can basically have it. The offense lost a very valuable weapon in Steve O'Neill, but look for Billy Harrison to take his role as running back. Rich Gillis and Brian Carroll will probably be used as wide receivers, while, Tim Gillis will probably in my guess, get the nod for the quarterback's job.

As for the defense, Sean Kerrigan, Tom Burke and Rich Gillis will led the way.

Boys Soccer - With the injury to goaltender Joe Bamberg, the team's success...well, will have to pull something very big out of the magical hat. They do have several solid players coming back in Dan King, Steve Kosmidis, Eric Jones, Darren Bishop, Dave Bennett, Doug Olander with Chris Kilburn and Tom Heigham.

Girls Soccer - With most of the last year's team leaving, this year's team will be led by the scoring of Renee Vachon, the mid-field play of Nicole Ciaramaglia, the defensive gems of Nicole Dussault and the rookie netminder Elaine Bruno.

Field Hockey - New head coach Maureen Noone will have her hands full in her first full season - with more or less a rebuilding process. The team lost a lot of talented players, but, this year's team has one very impressive one in, Leanne Harris.

Julie Gillis, Catherine Townsend, Deanna Ward, Nicole Catazano and Paula Williams are all coming off impressive, hustling seasons.

Boys Cross Country - Last year's team was pretty talented with the likes of Justin Yentile, Pat Rufo and Henry Grise leading the way and this year the team will be looking for Tim Peterson, Jeremy Rufo, Mike Sweet and Mike Fuller to not only improve on every stride and every meet, but also to lead the very young team.

Girls Cross Country - This team has one very promising underclassman in Sarah Allen, who is coming off a banner freshman year and if she continues to improve like she did late last year, than you will be hearing her name a lot more in the next few years.

Volleyball - Last year's team was the best team in WHS in many, many years. A lot of seniors left from last year's club but the junior varsity level had a successful season themselves. Look for Lisa Chin, Jacquelyn Harrison and Lisa Timulty to lead the way.

Sarah Churchill lets a pitch go during the Wilmington A.S.A. 12 and under softball tournament held this past weekend in Wilmington. (Photo by Steve Picano).

Halloween Day - during the summer?

by Dorothy McCarthy

It's the middle of the summer and the Playground Program has gone through a multitude of activities. Last week began with one of the Playgrounders' favorite arts and crafts activities, tie-dying t-shirts! With over 40 color splashed shirts hanging out to dry across the playground, it looked as if the 60's had exploded!

Halloween Day was also a big hit. Playgrounders, volunteers and leaders came dressed up in their favorite costumes. The Creativity Award went to Josh Newhouse who was a dead ringer for the Little Rascals' Alfalfa.

Best costume design was awarded to Heather Hussey who buzzed around the playground in an adorable bumble bee costume. Who had the scariest costume? Well, according to some playgrounders, punk rocker Lisa Dineen would be the last person they would want to meet in a dark alley!

Volunteer Adam Mutchler received the Funniest Costume award for being dressed as a hula dancer. It's not often that playgrounders get to see one of their favorite guys in a grass skirt! Felicia Newhouse won best all around for her Cleopatra costume. She paid close attention to detail from head to toe, and her meticulous efforts really showed.

Halloween Day also brought some great games and activities. Children competed in the doughnut eating contest, using their mouths only to grasp doughnuts that hung from strings above their heads.

First place winners were: Adam Mutchler, Lauren Mallon, Janessa Mutchler, Michael Gable, Corey Lawrence, Erin Porterfield and Pat Cushing.

Another event required blindfolded children to pin the bat on Batman. Amazingly, six children got the bat directly on the designated space. These children were: Nicole Texieira, Jillian Abel, Melissa Paris, Jenna Jordan, Christina Tocci and Lisa Dineen.

Later it was bubble gum blowing at its best, as playgrounders competed to see who could blow the biggest bubbles. David Paris, Celine DeMaggio and Adam Mutchler were the first place winners. When they finished bobbing for fruit, children got to use their estimation skills in order to determine how many pieces of Candy Corn were in a Jack-O-Lantern bag. The winner, Eric Rosage, was the closest to guessing the actual number with his guess of 1099. He was only off by 56! He will be taking home all that candy corn to share with family and friends.

Wednesday's field day was a great success. Children engaged in "wackee races" that included an "old cothes relay," a "lifesaver pass," and a "partner/group stand up game." After playing these games in the blazing summer heat, the playgrounders were more than ready to participate in the water events - the "Holey Cup Relay," the "water balloon toss," and the "under, through, around water balloon pass."

Playgrounders got a big treat on Thursday when they took a trip to Silver Lake. With the beautiful weather, playgrounders were able to engage in tons of summer time activities. Children were swimming, making sand castles, sunbathing, and playing volleyball, nerf football, frisbee, and even four-square!

On Friday, a group of playgrounders attended the field trip to Chuck E. Cheese in Danvers. Children enjoyed endless pizza and drinks as they watched Chuck E. and his friends in a energetic stage show. Afterward, the children played the multitude of arcade games that Chuck E. Cheese is famous for. A great time was had by all.

As usual, we had some wonderful helpers. A special thanks to Volunteers of the Week, Melissa Nadeau and Tarryn Daisy. They come early to Playground every day to help set up, and they are always willing to offer a helping hand with the day's activities. Playgrounders of the Week, Jessica Jackson and Janessa Mutchler were great helpers. They assisted leaders as they brought in equipment and they volunteered to help run various playground activities.

Jenn Solomon has the right idea in this scorching heat as she applies a wet cloth over her head, while, Mandy Santos has the same idea during the Wilmington A.S.A. 14 and under softball team. (Photo by Steve Picano).

Down the stretch they come...in Wilmington Adult Softball

by James Pote

Yet, another exciting season of Wilmington Adult Softball is winding down its regular season with playoffs starting in about two weeks.

Taking a glance through the leagues, first in the Over 35 League (since the league has been there forever), every team now is competitive. And any team can take it all.

Last year's champs Uptown Deli, continue to be at the top with Rocco's. Marc Reed and Chuck Osgood the respective pitchers, have been doing a fine job for their respective teams.

But the bats continue to sizzle for both squads. Paul Fullerton, Bobby Hogg, Bob Frongillo and Pat Taylor not only combine for a most of the teams offense, but they also combine with some big home runs (well, except for Hogg).

Rocco's on the other hand, dial long distance several times in every game. Whether it is Rich or Jimmy Rappolli or even Chuck Duggan, the team has had some tape measuring four baggers this season.

As for the others, Charlies Auto Body have been near the .500 mark all season with the addition of Bobby Noel on the hill, while, Shea's Concrete and Stelio's have added hurlers themselves. Stelio's added Chris HInxman, who also pitches in the Modified Division and for Jack's Team, who will be leaving for the Nationals in a few weeks.

The Modified Division is basically in the same predicament except that Pizza Mia/Roger's Radiator are the favorites to take home the championship again this year.

The other four teams can also make the playoffs very interesting and they can all give PM-RR a scare, but with the likes of Tom Aprile, Bobby Beals, Mark Lopez, Ray Mercuri, Mike Alornardo, Billy Sinopoli (the best pitcher in the league, hands down) leading the way - it's tough to count these guys out.

First for the other four teams, 3 Sons Contracting have been around the even keel mark all season long. They bring experience and solid fielding with them and most of all heads up play which will get a team a long way.

McHugh Tile, can also make a bid with their well balanced squad. With ace pitcher Paul Bova out the rest of the season, the team called Gerry O'Reilly to the rescue and thus far he has done quite well.

Leavitt-Miceli can also make a bid but they are not as strong as they were last year, but, if Tommy Woods can throw the way he has been, then maybe they can challenge for the crown again.

Finally, Millbrook Day School, has been struggling all year with just three wins, but ever since George Pratt was signed as a free agent, the team has done much better with his presence. Since

Second session for Tiny Tots

The second session of the Wilmington Recreation Department's Tiny Tot Program is currently underway. With the creation of a seven-year-old group, there are now over 100 boys and girls enjoying a variety of activities each day at the Shawsheen Elementary School.

Crafts projects have included parachutes, gliders, kazoos, and a tiny tots quilt. The children have also gone on a lobster hunt and a "bike wash," and run an obstacle course. To beat the hear, swimming pools, bubbles and a sprinkler were featured last Thursday. The week was capped off with a trip to Children's Museum in Boston where the tots played and explored in air-conditioned comfort.

Pratt's acquisition, the team is 1-2 with both losses being by one run. This team with Mike KIng, Tom Ducey, Lou Cimaglia and Bobby Hogg leading with the bats, could sneak up on a few teams.

The third league, the open co-ed slow pitch, also can have all eight teams taking the crown. However, Northeast Development, Norm's (last year's winners) and North Wilmington Shell appear to be the front runners.

NE Development and NW Shell are both very similar teams. Both have power and a lot of depth to go to. Dick Hersom, Tom Ducey, Joe Viera and Mike King can all take one deep for NE, while, Tim and Tom Moran, Rob and Dan Santos as well as Bob Ducharme can jog around the bases as well. IThose two teams with Norm's base hits attack style of play, should make it very interesting down the stretch drive.

The other teams, Robarge's, Robarge Landscaping and Townsend Welding can also beat the best of them - if they come to play.

The playoffs as mentioned, are two weeks away and who knows who will be the champs in each of the four leagues (sorry, for no Industrial League notes).

All that is known, that any team can win - that's what makes Wilmington the better softball league around (and the fact that they don't have bench clearing brawls every night).

A Ph.D in "The Boss"?

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"So when I tell people I'm writing a thesis on Springsteen fans, I get a strange look," says Dan Cavicchi of Reading.

No problem.

When you go around linking linguistics with linguini, Madison County liaisons, fandom, and rock opera, you get used to strange encounters and mixed reactions.

Music, says Cavicchi, can be bubble gum for the ears. And at Brown University, `Cavicchi groupies' know the score, taking all of his classes, and then some.

Dan Cavicchi has just been named one of six recipients (out of 500 candidates) of the `1995 Brown University Award for Excellence in Teaching' - and in the classroom, Cavicchi is `the boss.'

Popular culture is his thing. Making connections, his mantra. And for a long while now, Springsteen has been his subject.

"Culture is not just museums and literature," he says. "It's an entire way of life. It involves everything from brushing your teeth to a Van Gogh. It's the whole spectrum. And we can learn from all of it. That's my philosophy."

"My dissertation," he says, "is an ethnography of Springsteen fans."

Hunhh?

He hasn't met Springsteen yet ... but he has made a connection.

He began, simply enough, at Cornell, as a journalism major, switched to English, tuned into music, looking always for links among his favorite subjects, and hooking up, along the way with a "music in daily life" project at SUNY-Buffalo, and in a big way with American Studies.

Music in daily life seems innocent enough.

"There were about 30 or 40 graduate and undergraduate interviewers," he says, "and we all went out into the world and found people and asked them one question: `What is music about for you?'"

The answers, compiled in "My Music," co-authored by Cavicchi, were all different, yet all the same, indicative of a common culture: fandom.

Why Springsteen?

"My wife," says Cavicchi, "is a big fan.

"This is going to sound very weird," he continues. "You can pick any subject and if you think deeply enough and ask the right questions, you can learn all sorts of things."

Take the noodle.

"Last night," he says, "I was thinking about the noodle. You just start with the noodle and you can learn about Italian culture, American culture, immigration, American progressivism, health. In the `20s, Italian food was considered this very healthy thing; having lots of pasta was considered a good thing. You can talk about economics, tariff wars between imported spaghetti and domestic spaghetti - which actually was quite a serious issue several years ago.

"It's the same thing with literature. I never can sit with just a text. I always have to sit with the literature, and the politics, biography and everything else that's wrapped around it."

That philosophy, translated into music, plays out like this - straight from Cavicchi's book on "Springsteen fans," straight from the author's mouth:

"Springsteen fans are very divided on a number of issues," says Cavicchi.

"There's collectors versus non-collectors, really serious fans and what people call casual fans, people who listen to the lyrics and people who listen to the music - and there are fierce arguments between fans over these divisions, and they threaten to fracture the community.

"But at the same time," he continues, "there is this active movement - different groups are trying to find common ground and come together."

Take the `Bruce' stories.

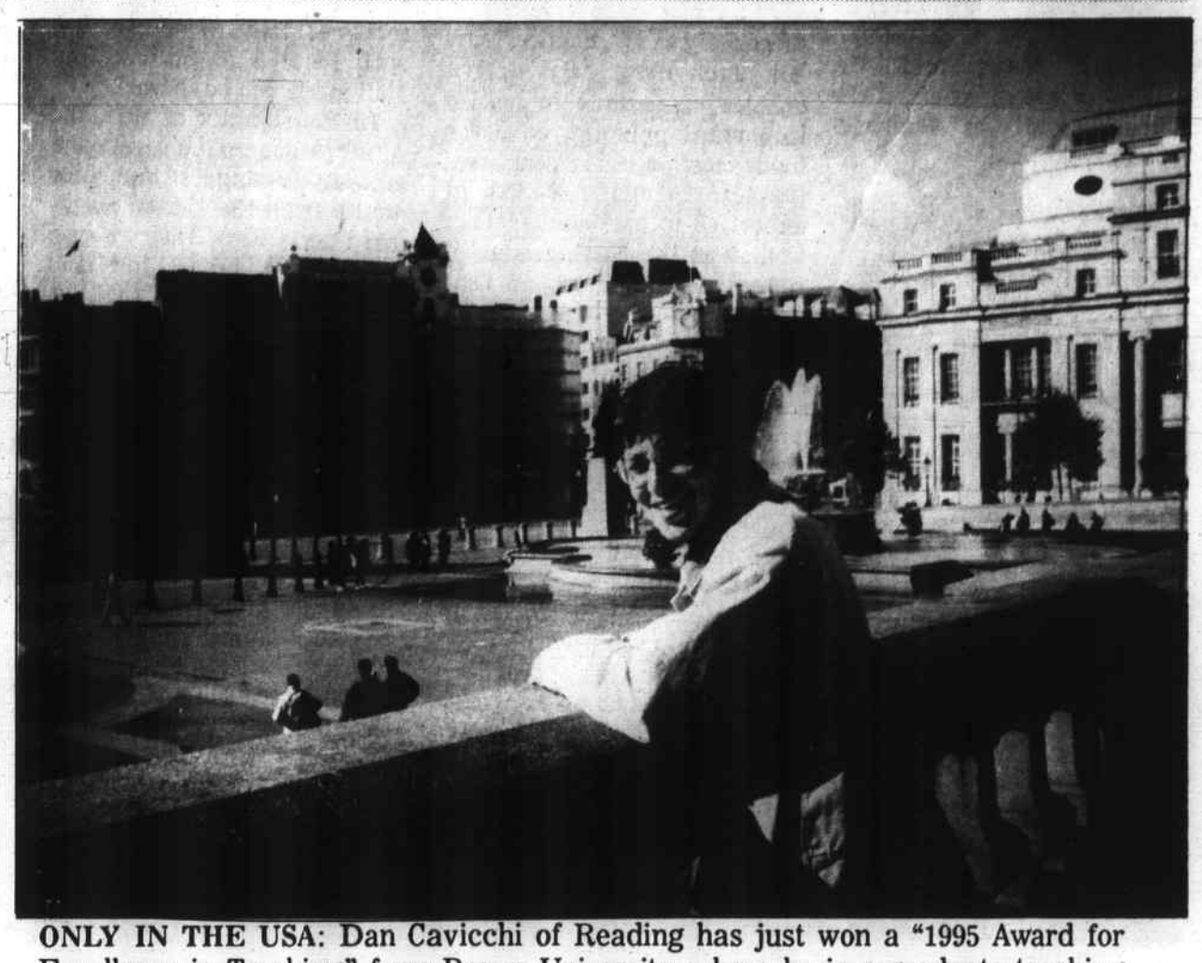

"One thing fans do is tell Bruce stories to one another," he says. "They tell stories about being a fan. They tell stories about the time they met Bruce or the time they went to Asbury Park or about a concert experience they had a couple of years ago.

"All fans have these same experiences. They tell stories to one another, and it kind of brings them back to what being a fan is all about, and it brings them together.

"Some people think that because popular music is mass-marketed, it is vapid - and bubble gum for the ears," he continues.

"But there are millions of Folks, I find that parents who have wonderful children, generally are wonderful parents. Dennis Tully's father asked Dennis why he was kept after school? "I didn't know where the Azores are," Dennis replied. "O'kay," Mr. Tully said, "But next time remember where you put things."

Blackie Vega's credit rating was upgraded to, Triple Z. It means, watch out, even when Blackie wants to pay cash.

Teacher Maria Cole asked Joe Ravida, 'what was Louis IVth chiefly responsible for?" "I think it was for, Louis the fifteenth" Joe Ravida replied.

Folks, behind every successful man there's a proud wife and a surprised mother in law.

I love those humorous bumper stickers, like, "I owe, I owe, so off to work I go."

"Watch my rear end, not hers," and "please, slow down heaven can wait."

The insurance adjuster asked Sonny Pearlman, "When did you first notice that your roof was leaking?" "At dinner," Sonny replied, "when it took me an hour to finish my soup."

The police radio blared out, "cars four and five, investigate a call that numerous, 'Top-Less' bathers are in the vicinity of Kelly's on the beach."

"Well folks, police cars in a 20 mile radius responded and, indeed there were hundreds of, Top - Less bather$ "MEN"

Some rules border on the ridiculous like, Foreman to a brick layer, "Hey! what do you think you're doing?" "I'm sharpening my pencil." "Well" the Foreman shouted, "don't let anyone see you doing it, that's a carpenter's job!"

A man rang my doorbell and asked me, "Would you like to make a contribution to the Old Ladies Home?" "Sure," I replied, "take my mother in law"

I was told that the heads of the sardines are cut off so they won't bite each other in the can.

A dentist's epitaph, "I am filling my last cavity."

I told a beautiful young lady, "I'm sorry but there's a member of my family who doesn't want me to marry you." "Oh who is it?" she asked. I smiled and said, "my wife Kathy."

When Jimmy Serra worked in a bakery I asked him, "how much is your 'Pound Cake?' " Jimmy replied, "16 ounces." John Giordano was shouting at Fenway Park, "Twenty thousand people and that darn pigeon had to 'Spot' me!"

I asked Brian McCarthy, "have you got an opening for a Genius?" "Yes," he said," And don't slam the door on the way OUT!"

Welcome, Rev. Victor Lavoie to St. Eulalia Parish Winchester.

New primary care physician joins practice of Dr. Jack Berg

MELROSE - Internist/Cardiologist Jack Berg, M.D. is pleased to welcome a new associate, David Siegenberg, M.D., to join him in the practice of internal medicine at his office at 585 Lebanon Street in Melrose. Dr. Siegenberg is an internist and specializes in gastroenterology. Dr. Berg and Dr. Siegenberg are members of the medical staff of Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

David Siegenberg, M.D.

Dr. Siegenberg completed a three year residency in Internal Medicine at the Boston University Medical Center after interning for a year in Medicine and Surgery in Johannesburg, South Africa. He then completed a three year fellowship in Gastroenterology at the Boston University Medical Center.

During his training, Dr. Siegenberg provided patient care at Boston City Hospital, the Veterans Administration Hospital in Jamaica Plain, and at University Hospital. He has served on the medical staffs of New England Sinai Hospital in Stoughton and Norwood Hospital. Dr. Siegenberg has been an instructor in Medicine at the Boston University School of Medicine since 1990.

"I am pleased to welcome Dr. Siegenberg to my practice," says Dr. Jack Berg. "His arrival enables our practice to provide important primary care for many more patients in our area. He also brings a wealth of expertise in gastroenterology and is on the cutting edge of recent developments in that area. Our patients will now have the benefit of continuity of care for many of their health concerns, including general medicine, cardiology and now gastroenterology. We are fortunate to have Dr. Siegenberg join us."

Dr. Siegenberg is a strong proponent of patient education and preventive care and he advocates the need for early detection on many medical problems. "Screening programs for diseases such as colorectal cancer offer a very good opportunity for the early detection of health problems which in turn leads to early treatment and the best chance for cure," says Dr. Siegenberg.

He has performed extensive research in gastroenterology, the area of medicine involved with the study of diseases of the stomach, liver and intestines. He has published studies in numerous medical publications and presented to his research colleagues in the United States and abroad.

People for Peace have vigil

August 6, marks the 50th anniversary of the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The Merrimac Valley People for peace is remembering this day with a Candlelight Vigil on the North Andover commons at 7:30 pm across from the North Parish Church, 190 Academy Road, North Andover.

MVPP is a grass roots organization that has been in existence for 11 years working for the establishment of world peace. The membership of the group is as diverse as the population of the Merrimack Valley, representing every walk of life and every age group. We are committed to the interrelated activities of education for peace and justice, the prevention of war, an end to arms sales, the abolition of nuclear weapons, economic diversification, and the protection of the environment. We are currently working on: a reduction in the Defense Department budget, a halt to arms sales, peace education through conflict resolution and mediation skill development in the schools, and a comprehensive test ban treaty and a renewal of the nuclear non proliferation treaty.

The MVPP would like to invite everyone to remember the Hibakusha, survivors of the atomic bombings. After the silent vigil a video presentation "With Our Own Eyes" from the American Friends Service Committee's Youth Delegation to Hiroshima and Nagasaki, with local N.A. Student Ian McConnell, will be shown ..

In the summer of 1994, the AFSC assembled a delegation of sixteen teenagers and four adults from the United States and Puerto Rico. Their charge: Journey to Japan and find answers to questions such as, "Why should young people in the United States today care about the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945?" During their three-week stay, they learned some wrenching lessons about the high price of war, lessons they will spread throughout the United States this year.

As one delegation member said, "I will remember the pain I felt upon hearing the stories of the hibakusha. Above all, I will remember the phrase repeated to us by every hibakusha we spoke with: No more Hiroshima, no more Nagasaki!!"

Ian McConnell from North Andover was a participant in this delegation and was also sponsored by the Merrimac Valley People for Peace to be able to travel to Japan. Ian will be available after the vigil along with local resident, Mary Todd, to discuss and share their experiences of their trips to Hiroshima.

people who participate and find meaning in it ... (etc.) It's a very large phenomenon across the whole world. It's in commercials. It's on every radio station. Clinton used Fleetwood Mac in his campaign. I mean, my goodness, music and fandom are pervasive forces, and I think we need to ask the right questions about them." Without stereotypes.

"We need to ask," he continues, "if they're so vapid and if they're so empty, why are people participating in them so much? You can ask all kinds of sociological questions. It's all culture."

Popular culture.

About "Bridges": "I tried to read it," he says. "I took it out. I thought it was maudlin and really tough to get through but as a phenomenon, it's fascinating. It's fulfilling some sort of need in people, and it's interesting to think about what that need is.

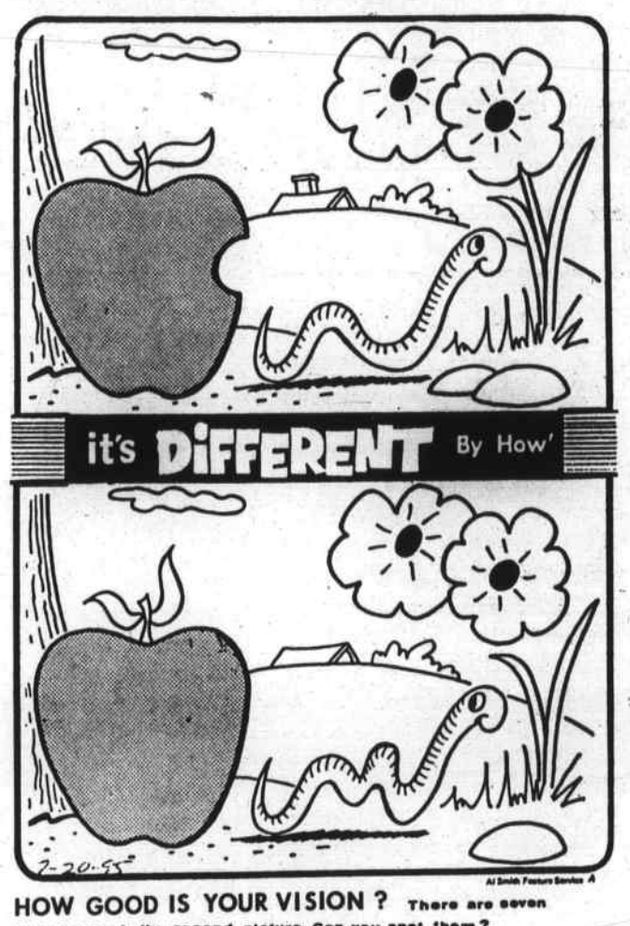

"I haven't thought about it that deeply. It's not just the quality of the work itself. What is quality? Quality is determined by all sorts of different forces. I don't think it's inherent in a work. It depends on politics, who's in control, who's not in control.

"This is a great example of 'if you ask the right questions about something, you can learn a lot from it.'"

Dan Cavicchi is also a great example - as they discovered at Brown - of an excellent teacher. And - as Bruce Springsteen could be about to discover - of the intriguing connections which come about when an expert uses his noodle.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Maybe retiring, never shy

Congratulations, Ron!

Lynnfield's Summer Street School Guidance Counselor Ron Nutter retired recently after 34 years in education, 27 in the Lynnfield Public Schools.

'Nobody was safe'

When Tewksbury school officials gathered to honor retiring Tewksbury High Principal Bill DeGregorio, everybody came, notes Bill Conlon, in the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier," and everybody had a story ... but nobody was safe.

In his 25 years at the school,"Mister D," it seems, became "one of perhaps the most colorful characters ever to stroll the halls of Tewksbury Memorial High School."

"Tewksbury Teachers Association President Gerry Rideout, who was hired by the Tewksbury system in the same year - 1970 - as Billy D, recalled some of his memorable daily announcements: 'There is a car in the parking lot with the door open; your valuables are exposed' and 'Please bring in your donations for the homely and the needless' or the one about a student skiing trip to 'Crotch Mountain.'

"Rideout said," notes Conlon, "DeGregorio's pride in TMHS was so unyielding that he once stood on a urinal to correct the spelling on some graffiti on the wall. (Feel free to doubt the truth of that story.)

"Rideout, and all the other school officials, commented on having had to suffer through at least one loud argument with DeGregorio. They all agreed that DeGregorio never gave ground in an argument unless he could be proven wrong, which wasn't easy.

"Assistant Principal Tony Romano commented on Mister D's favorite phrases, such as 'peachy-keen' and calling everyone 'babe.' Romano recalled DeGregorio counseling a problem student, saying, 'Never mind Special Ed! I'm going to show you some Karate Ed!'

"Romano also said that one day, as a group of teachers stopped into the McDonald's on Main Street for a quick breakfast on opening day at school, DeGregorio grew impatient waiting in line. Mister D, Romano said, stomped out of McDonald's to the Burger King across the street, got his breakfast, and brought it back to McDonald's to eat. Romano added that DeGregorio had to be forced to use vacation days because of his dedication to the school.

"Assistant Superintendent John Ryan sprayed his shots around the room, zapping his boss, school Superintendent Christine McGrath, and even the school committee. He said DeGregorio once complained that he can't understand budgeting, can't handle teacher qualifications or curriculum and can't follow the school building issues, so he's going to run for school committee.

"Ryan said a sure indicator that a meeting has run too long is when Billy D's head thumps on the table. Ryan said DeGregorio used the GI Bill for his schooling after the U.S. Army, and 'the nuns were glad to have him back at the Sacred Heart grammar school.'

"Curriculum Director Joe Walsh and Dracut High Principal Bruce Hutchins took turns zinging Mister D, and son Robert DeGregorio had a turn at the microphone, griping about the 'long-winded tall tales' but saying that DeGregorio taught his kids to believe in themselves, his personal motto.

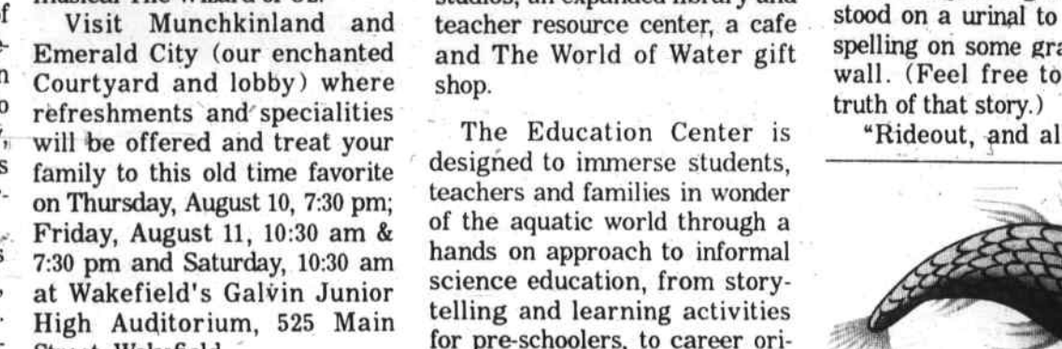

"In the closing comments, Billy D got to strike back. He said there is a Japanese maple tree planted in the high school court yard in his honor, but it wasn't what he had in mind.

"'I wanted Japanese in the school for five or 10 years, but all I got was a tree. Did you hear that, Joe?' he yelled at Curriculum Director Walsh."

Congratulations, all!

Wakefield Superintendent of Schools Terrance Holmes and School Committee Chairperson Jo-Ann Angelo recently made presentations to the following retiring school department employees at a reception in their honor: Nancy Green, Jane Rodd, Nancy Wilson, Al Generazzo, and Flora Formosi.

North Reading grows again

North Reading's Community Planning and Development Commission has endorsed plans to expand retail properties at Star Market Plaza and Eastgate Plaza, at opposite ends of Main Street.

At Star Market Plaza, Kappy's Liquor Store will become a Sears Hardware and Garden Center. And at Eastgate Plaza, additions will be made to Eastgate Liquors and CVS, with a Bank of Boston ATM booth planned on the southeast corner of the building near the Main Street exit. According to owner John Lucci, Eastgate Liquors is looking for 30 percent more storage capacity to provide more food products to customers. He doesn't, according to the North Reading "Transcript," intend to expand liquor sales.

Free for all would tempt Tewksbury

"Until the state finishes its budget ... all town budget figures are estimates only," notes the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier."

The Tewksbury budget subcommittee has gone through a list of agenda items like revenue projections for the new fiscal year, anticipated free cash and its distribution, new school personnel, and the "retirement system."

Under ed' reform, the town is required to pay a fixed amount toward school expenses but Town Manager David Cressman notes, in the "Crier," that the county retirement system made a recent change which hurts the town side of the school budget: health benefits for retirees will no longer count as part of the town's contribution to the school budget - meaning the town must make up the difference somehow.

"Free cash," the amount left over in the town budget after all spending is covered, may be estimated at less than $1 million for the new fiscal year, says Cressman, but there is no guarantee that free cash will go toward the school system. Better figures should be known by August.

Sewers or schools in Tewksbury? Selectman Pete Hanson, not a member of the budget committee, has stated, according to the "Crier," that he wants free cash spent to lower property taxes or on sewer system additions.

Mail lines

The Winchester Post Office has been undergoing a major expansion this summer, destined to add more than 200 new boxes for customer use. Disruptions in the lobby and window service area are to be expected.

Fine lines

"Is it ignorance, lack of conscience or just sheer stupidity that might explain why day after day one can see people violating the water conservation law in Reading," writes Kate Fenno, in a letter to the editor, in Reading.

"Concerning ignorance - One could hardly presume that people are unaware. The gasoline spill occurred three years ago and the town has tried to work out a fair plan with alternating days of water usage. The town has continued posting these restrictions in local papers and had placed notices in residents' mailboxes. Shall we try a bullhorn alert on the streets?

"Concerning lack of conscience - One gets the feeling that people don't care. Surely one could rationalize that some water for my plants won't deplete the system. Well, multiply that person x 100 or so and you figure it out. And what might the rationalization be for washing a car? Now, how necessary is that for survival?

"Concerning sheer stupidity - It appears that people must be pretty stupid if they are unaware that water is a precious resource and considering the situation in Reading one might consider that in jeopardy.

"It appears that when you can't appeal to another's intelligence then someone decides let's hit them where they'll listen - with fines. Let's hope that the town is enforcing the fine. When reason fails, punitive measures often prove to help change behavior.

"It would be nice if some people didn't have to act like Big Brother informing on others for their non-compliance. I'm sure that no one wants a total restriction of water, especially the ones who have been abiding by the law."

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Medicare desk helps elderly

Will my insurance company cover the costs of ambulance transportation? How do I apply for Medicare and Medex? What kind of nursing home care does my insurance cover? Am I eligible for the prescription plan?

With so many insurance companies and insurance regulations continually changing, it is no wonder that many people, particularly older people who carry more than one health plan, are often confused by their healthcare benefits. Fortunately, for those older adults seeking answers to their Medicare and insurance questions, help is available through the Melrose Wakefield Hospital Medicare Desk.

A free service to adults over 65, the Medicare Desk provides information, referral and counseling on health insurance issues and needs. The hospital first began the Medicare Desk program several years ago when it became apparent that many of the elderly are confused by insurance issues.

"With the help of the SHINE program of the Executive Office of Elder Affairs, we were able to train volunteers to work specifically with elders on insurance issues," says Deb Shapiro, MWH director of Community Services. "Through the Medicare Desk, our trained help elders become better informed about insurance issues and therefore, make more informed choices."

On any given day, volunteers who staff the MWH Medicare Desk answer questions about a variety of subjects from Social Security to Medicare coverage to long term care policies and prescription coverage, and much more. "We have quite a broad range of knowledge and can clear up most any problem that comes across our desks," says volunteer Joseph Fabiano of Wakefield. "In addition to helping seniors with there current insurance policies, we also direct them to additional programs that specialize in handling the issues that face today's elderly."

Many of the elderly serviced by the Medicare Desk become repeat visitors. "It's not unusual for us to see the same people several or more times," Fabiano notes. "For some people it is easier for us to document their on going accounts, rather than trying to do it themselves. We also help a lot of people fill out their insurance forms, which can sometimes require more than one visit.

"It's always gratifying to see someone come back to you after you've helped them because it lets us now that we're doing a good job," he continues. "I enjoy helping people in this way because as a retiree myself, I am well aware of the importance of this program."

The Melrose Wakefield Hospital Medicare Desk hours are every other Monday from 10am - 1 pm and every Wednesday from 10 am - 1 pm. Because there is a high volume of seniors seeking assistance, it is suggested that appointments be made in advance. To make an appointment or for additional information, please call 979-3441.

Pool Therapy for arthritis

Do you know the pain and suffering of arthritis? That arthritis sufferers suffer physically and also mentally? Depression, anger, frustration, "why me?" syndrome?

The Northmeadow Club in Tewksbury is offering aquacize classes that help deal with arthritis and total body fitness. Barbara Collins, the instructor, knows first hand about arthritis. Four years ago, she had chronic pain and numbness in her left leg, both arms, both knees and left foot. She then started on her journey from rheumatologist to physical therapist and, eventually, to pool therapy.

Now, thanks to pool therapy, she no longer takes medication and has become a certified instructor, teaching aquacize, water walking, senior splash and arthritis classes.

Water classes are held in waist-deep to chest-deep water. Approximately 50%-75% of your body weight is displaced, reducing strain on joints and makes exercising more comfortable. The cooling effect of the water keeps the heart rate low and the buoyancy also makes it easier to perform exercise to increase range of motion, flexability and endurance. Classes are usually one hour in duration and start with a thermal warm-up.

No swimming ability is needed. Just bring a bathing suit, towel and rubber sandals (optional).

If you are interested in feeling better, (who isn't) and more physically fit, stop by the Northmeadow Club at 20 Carter Street in Tewksbury. Join the fun. Call 508-851-3901 for information.

Travel tips for physically challenged

There are more than 43 million disabled people in the United States. Many of these people travel. Some do not travel because they do not know how to put a trip together. Persons with mobility problems or vision or hearing impairment often are frustrated because they are unable to find the information they need. Surveys of travel agencies reveal that agents are not trained to work with disabled travelers.

Helen Hecker, registered nurse and seasoned traveler, is enlightening agents and travelers through her new book TRAVEL FOR THE DISABLED (A HANDBOOK OF TRAVEL RESOURCES AND 500 WORLDWIDE ACCESS GUIDES).

This 192 page guide is chock full of detailed and easy to understand information for disabled persons, travel agents and health professionals. Travel books magazines, and guides to parks, campgrounds, and special camps, are noted throughout, as well as helpful hints for traveling by air, bus, car, cruise ship, and train. The access guides list hotels, motels and other facilities that have limited or no mobility barriers. Most guides listed are free.

TRAVEL FOR THE DISABLED can be purchased for $19.95, plus $3 shipping, from The Disability Bookshop, P.O. Box 129, Vancouver, WA 98666-0129. Also available on three audiocassettes, same price. Or order toll-free (800) 637-2256 (U.S. & Canada). For information call (360)694-2462.

WARRIORS ON WHEELS VIDEO FOR HANDICAPPED

Warriors on Wheels, a non profit organization providing recreational fitness for individuals with disabilities, has released a video showcasing their innovative program and techniques.

"Strength Training for Independence" is a revolutionary video that introduces individuals with disabilities to weight training as a vehicle to achieve independence. Using the equipment and fitness programs of commercial health club programs, "Strength Training for Independence" teaches disabled individuals new ways to make use of traditional equipment, techniques for proper exercise and safety precautions.

The ultimate goal of the video is to use exercise as a means to improve life skills outside of the gym. Maneuvering and transferring from a wheelchair and increasing stamina are initial physical results. Increased self confidence and an aggressive positive attitude are additional benefits of fitness training, goal setting and achievement.

"Personal trainers and gym owners can benefit from the video in helping to service the disabled population in a mainstream atmosphere," Says Ned Norton, a strength and fitness trainer and founder of Warriors on Wheels. Teachers of health and special education classes can also employ the video's fitness techniques to inspire students.

The Warriors on Wheels program, a chapter of Disabled Sports USA, serves 131 wheelchair users with Spina Bifida and spinal cord injuries. Hospitals, Rehabilitation centers and agencies for the disabled refer individuals to the Warriors, and embrace their unique hands on motivational style.

For free information about the Strength Training for Independence video, call: 518-453-9205.

Waterworld Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn

"Waterworld" starring Kevin Costner, Dennis Hopper, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Tina Majorino, Michael Jeter. Directed by Kevin Reynolds. Written by Peter Rader, David Twohy. Produced by Charles Gordon, John Davis, Costner. Rated PG-13.

It's too bad both "Waterworld" and Kevin Costner, its star and co-producer, garnered such bad publicity before the film opened, as there is nothing soggy about this flick.

Imaginative and full of adventure, it does what a good summer flick should by taking us outside of ourselves and plunging us into a completely different time and place. Just remember to check your brain at the door, because if you think about this too long, the magic will evaporate.

Costner plays Mariner, a mutant drifter complete with gills and webbed feet, who roams the watery, featureless future. The story is set after the polar ice caps have melted and what few humans still inhabit the world, do so on floating atolls cobbled together from whatever flotsam and jetsam there is to be found.

Costner is thrown together with a little girl (Tina Majorino) who has a strange tattoo on her back that is rumored to be a map of the mythical Dryland. He unwillingly joins forces with her adoptive mother, played by the pouty, strong Jeanne Tripplehorn. All three are forced to fight both the elements and a greasy, raggedy bunch of miscreants known as the Smokers, led by Dennis Hopper.

Everyone is after fresh water, called hydro, or a bucket of even rarer stuff, dirt. It you think this sounds like the post-apocalyptic "Mad Max", you couldn't be more correct. But the world created by director Kevin Reynolds and screenwriters Peter Rader and David Twohy is actually more creative. New languages have evolved, as well as fierce sea monsters. Clothing, housing, machines. Everything has been reinvented for a wet, new world. On a visual level, this flick is both believable and exciting.

The weak spots concern the logic of what survived the civilization-ending floods and what didn't. For the most part, the sets and costumes reflect items that could have floated to the surface or been harvested from the sea. But there are a few glaring problems, such as all those cigarettes so happily inhaled by Hopper's bunch of baddies. You just can't think about it, because it's too ridiculous.

Fortunately, there is enough going on so that you can force the glitches out of your mind. The special effects are remarkable and there is a smart sense of humor streaked through the film. Hopper's psychotic leader is one of the best he's created to date. Funny and outrageous, he's the kind of guy who knows he's smarter and more charismatic than the average schmuck, and uses those talents to his own best advantage.

Costner's Mariner, meanwhile, is quite the opposite. Surly and quiet, he's an aloof loner whose character expands somewhat by his involvement with others. Costner internalizes his role as much as Hopper externalizes his. The combination of Hopper's gleeful wickedness with Costner's strange, mutant prowess, plus the evocative visuals, is enough to reel us into a story that could have sunk under its own weight.

Free Willy 2: The Adventure Home is better than you'd expect from a sequel to that sweet 1993 sleeper. Most of the original cast is back, with the added treat of cinematographer Laszlo Kovacs. He makes up for the film's hokeyness with gorgeous scenery and beautifully shot water ballets starring playful whales. In this outing, Willy is reunited with the now teenaged Jesse (Jason James Richter) just before an environmental disaster threatens Willy's life. It works best before the melodrama sets in, but there is plenty of adventure for the pre-pubescent crowd, as well as several charming scenes. Rated PG ***

The Net is a fast-paced, paranoid techno-thriller starring Sandra Bullock as a computer whiz-kid who finds herself unwittingly drawn into the dangerous world of computer terrorism. There is plenty of action, even some that is a little too coincidental, but the real chills come from the very believable fact that someone could just be eliminated, at least on paper, by the push of a computer button. Bullock gives another strong performance, matched by Jeremy Northam as the charming, lethal hacker hot on her trail. Rated PG-13. ***

Nine Months is one of those flicks you may want to catch on cable, as it doesn't deserve a trip to the theater. In fact, it may have just breezed by unnoticed without the naughty off-screen antics of leading actor Hugh Grant. He is more than a little unsympathetic as a child psychologist with Peter Pan Syndrome who can't handle the unplanned pregnancy of long-time gal pal Julianne Moore. Director/writer Chris Columbus is heavy-handed where sophistication and subtlety was called for and Grant is not versatile enough to make us care. Moore, and co-star Joan Cusack, turn in stronger performances, but you can't escape the general goofiness of the plot. Robin Williams lights up the screen in a small role as a Russian obstetrician thrilled to work with human patients, having tired of similans. Rated PG-13. **

Clueless is a true surprise, especially if you expected absolutely nothing from this send-up of the trials and tribulations of a pampered Beverly Hills teenager. Writer/director Amy Heckerling cleverly pokes fun at those privileged youths without getting nasty about it. Alicia Silverstone is perfect in the title role; she's pouty, sexy, and very funny as a well-meaning, rather dim teen. The best thing to be said is that this is every bit as good as Heckerling's "Fast Times at Ridgemont High." Rated PG-13. 1/2

First Knight, enjoyable and unabashedly romantic, just doesn't get under your skin the way it should. Sean Connery is the wise and strong King Arthur, Julia Ormond is the majestic Guinevere who admires her king but lusts for Richard Gere's Lancelot. A visual masterpiece, this film almost makes up for its lack of emotion with lush green, burnished silvers, Celtic crosses, and candlelight processions. There is no Merlin or sorcery, just three people caught up in a tragic love triangle that weakens their fight against an evil invader. Though lacking an emotional depth that could have transformed a good movie into a great one, romantics should still enjoy this, even if they never quite believe it. Rated PG-13. ***

Judge Dredd is titled about right, because this sci-fi action flick is a trial to sit through. Sylvester Stallone has the title role of a street judge who doles out instant justice in yet another dark, dreary, post-Apocalyptic future. Based on a comic book character, this should have been more fantastic, lighter, faster moving. If nothing else, it needed a little humor. The special effects are big and bold, and Rob Schneider makes for a fun side-kick, but most of this flick is merely tolerable. Rated R. **

The Indian in the Cupboard is as winsome a picture as you'll ever encounter. Adapted from the beloved children's book, this imaginative flick never panders to the kids and is so well-written adults should love it. Hal Scardino plays a young boy who is given a cupboard that turns out to be magic - whatever he places in it comes to life. But creating time creatures brings with it an awesome responsibility. Lively and funny, yet enhanced by an unexpected depth, this is one summer fantasy that should not be missed. Rated PG. ****

Apollo 13 captures the dedication, romance, fear, and unabashed spirit of adventure that should accompany a story about the exploration of new frontiers. Technically, this is a masterpiece. Director Ron Howard's detailed scenes of the launch, NASA's control room, and even the weightlessness of the astronauts in their cramped quarters, are mind-boggling. When you consider that the subject matter involves swaggering astronauts and men who would ever show emotion, there is a lot of it up on the screen Rated PG. ****

Species commits the ultimate cinematic sin: It's boring. Quite a trick, really, when you consider the subject matter and an intriguing cast that includes Academy Award winner Ben Kingsley, Forest Whitaker, Marg Heigenberger, Alfred Molina, and Michael Madsen. This "Alien" rip-off lacks internal logic. It also never produces even one scary scene as an unusual search and destroy team tracks a mutant human/alien across the weirdness that is Los Angeles. Rated R. * 1/2.

Pocahontas is the perfect example of why Disney shouldn't do history. The 12-year-old Indian maiden who saved the life of John Smith is now a willowy sex kitten, and the story itself is broody, preachy, and so politically correct, all of the energy is drained right out of it. It has its moments, including intriguing casting, some funny animal antics and at least one good song, but this isn't up to the Disney standard. Perhaps less commercialism and hype next time? Rated G.  1/2

Fluke, an odd little film about reincarnation and Karma, has a distinctively European flavor that is strangely appealing. What it doesn't have is a target audience, as it tries to please both adults and kids, becoming diluted in the process. Matthew Modine is a dead businessman who comes back as a pup hoping to solve the mystery of his human death. An intriguing ending and nicely stylized visuals save this film from too many pandering, Kodak moments. Rated PG.  1/2

Mad Love has one thing going for it - its title. After that, it's all downhill. Chris O'Donnell is a nice high school boy who takes a dangerous liking to Drew Barrymore, a manic depressive. O'Donnell emerges from this fairly unscathed, but Barrymore's performance is little more than an annoying twitch. The story is completely unbelievable and the dialogue worse. Rated PG-13. X

Outbreak casts a chilling, but unseen killer with a strong cast in this all too realistic thriller as Dustin Hoffman and Rene Russo battle a new strain of virus that threatens the entire population of the U.S. Most fascinating is the detective process used to uncover the birth of the disease and its fatal path, less successful is the plot element in which the army follows its own agenda while tackling the disease. A bit heavy-handed, but exciting and well-acted. Rated R.  1/2

Star Trek is beaming into Boston

To the delight of Star Trek enthusiasts all over New England, Brent Spiner, who portrays the android "Data" on Star Trek the Next Generation, will be making a rare personal appearance Saturday August 12th at the Hynes Convention Center.

The Visions '95 convention promises to be the biggest science fiction event ever to come to Boston with over 45,00 square feet devoted to sci-fi/Star Trek related merchandise displays and presentations including the actual Captain's Chair from the bridge of the Starship Enterprise used in the latest Star Trek film, "Generations".

Since Star Trek The Next Generation's premier in 1987, Brent Spiner has been best known as Data, the innocent somewhat childlike, yet brilliant and powerful android. Throughout his years on the series, Mr. Spiner has skillfully developed the character ever expanding on Data's quest to be more human. November of last year brought the release "Generations", in which Data and his crewmates boldly went where only the Classic Trek Character had gone before: the big screen. Brent Spiner received rave reviews. Many journalists insist he stole the show! The film (which was released on video the week) has helped develop even greater recognition of Mr. Spiner. So much so, that he recently said that he feels lie one of the Beatles when he arrives to make an appearance!

At the Visions'95 convention Brent Spiner will participate in a question and answer session with the Audience. Other programming will include a behind the scenes slide show and conversation with Jackie Edwards, personal assistant to the Star Trek stars; a presentation by seven time Emmy winner Michael Cuneo on modeling and special effects; a talk by Arne Star, comic book artist and media specialist. As well as contests, movie previews, door prizes a costume contest, collectibles auction nd more.

Visions'95 is presented by Infinite Visions, a national promotion and marketing company based on Cape Cod. They hold Star Trek conventions across the country year round. Vice president of marketing Pamela Rimington is quick to dispel the notion that many people have about Star Trek conventions. It's not just for hard core fans of the TV series.

People of all ages come to enjoy the activities and of course, see our special guest stars. Our conventions are fun family events with something for everyone. We're really happy to be at the Hynes this summer its very spacious lots of room for everyone. I've been overwhelmed by the response to Brent's upcoming appearance. There are literally people coming from all over the country even two girls from England! I now that he will be truly appreciative of such staggering support. He's anxious to get to Boston to see his fans."

VISIONS '95 with special guest BRENT SPINER will be at the Hynes Convention Center, Boston on Saturday August 12th from 11 am to 6 pm. General admission: $17, adults, $8 children. Information hotline: 508-240-3557.
